Congress faces all-round attack after poll debacle

G-23 leaders seek timely elections in party

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Congress' flop show in five state elections, including its worst-ever performance in Uttar Pradesh under Priyanka Gandhi, has triggered an all-round attack against the top leadership with G23 leaders holding a meeting on Friday to press for urgent reforms in the party.

The leadership's arrogance and its growing disconnect with the people, the running of the party by a clique of sycophants who have no support among people are some of the issues being openly discussed by party leaders.

The G23 leaders, considered dissidents by those close to Rahul Gandhi, met on Friday at the residence of former Union minister Ghulam Nabi Azad in New Delhi. Lok Sabha MP Manish Tewari, deputy leader of the party in the Rajya Sabha Anand Sharma and Rajya Sabha MP Kapil Sibal were present.

During the meeting, the leaders agreed that during the Congress Working Committee (CWC) meeting, to be convened soon, they would press for reforms in the party, democratisation of decision making and timely elections for the post of Congress president and members of the CWC.

Sources said these leaders will also demand accountability for the electoral reverses and more inner-party democracy to be able to freely evaluate the party's decisions and performance of various hand-picked functionaries.

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, too, had advised Congress to shed its aggressive attitude and work with the opposition parties with a positive attitude if it wished to play a role in challenging the BJP in 2024.

Former MP Sandeep Dikshit, who was also part of G23 group, fired the first salvo at the party leadership by re-issuing a letter he had written to Sonia Gandhi when she was the party president. In the letter, Dikshit has decried the party's drifting away from the very ideals on which it was formed.

Russia prepares for final assault on Kyiv

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

AS the Russian invasion of Ukraine entered the 16th day, Moscow ramped up and expanded its offensive by striking new cities in the central and western parts of the country and regrouping its forces to launch the final assault on capital Kyiv.

On Friday, Russian air strikes hit two cities that had been far from Moscow's main targets elsewhere, Ukraine said. According to reports, the military airfields in Lutsk and Ivano-Frankivsk were destroyed while Russian strikes hit the east-central city of Dnipro for the first time since Moscow's offensive began, killing at least one person.

The UNHRC put the total civilian casualties in Ukraine at 549. Nearly 1,000 people were injured since the attacks began on February 24, it added. With the conflict continuing, US President Joe Biden said on Friday that his country, along with the G7 and European Union, will call for revoking Russia's 'most favoured nation' status to pave the way for tariffs to be imposed on Russian imports.

Meanwhile, Ukraine president's office on Friday alleged that Russia has recruited 16,000 ex-ISIS fighters, a claim rejected by Moscow.

Missile that hit Pakistan was fired accidentally

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A day after Pakistan said a missile from India landed in its territory, the Centre clarified that an unarmed projectile was accidentally fired due to a technical malfunction.

"On March 9, 2022, in the course of routine maintenance, a technical malfunction led to the accidental firing of a missile," the Defence Ministry said in a statement.

The government is taking the matter seriously and a high-level Court of Inquiry has been ordered, the ministry said.

"The missile landed in an area of Pakistan. While the incident is deeply regrettable, it is also a matter of relief that there has been no loss of life," the statement said.

Pakistan on Thursday night said a high-speed flying object from India violated its airspace and crashed near Mian Channu in its Punjab province. As per its estimate, the missile originated near Sirsa in Haryana.

Islamabad on Friday summoned India's Charge d'Affaires and conveyed its strong protest.

Refund ₹27.5 cr GST to Swiggy: HC to Centre

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday directed the Union Government to refund Goods & Services Tax (GST) of Rs 27.51 crore to BundL Technologies Pvt Ltd, which operates the e-commerce platform Swiggy. The GST amount was reportedly collected during the course of investigation without following the procedures prescribed under the CGST Act.

A division bench of Justices Alok Aradhe and M G S Kamal passed the order while dismissing an appeal filed by the Union Government, Directorate General of Goods and Services Tax Intelligence and others against the order of a single-judge bench. The Centre had sought setting aside of a single-judge bench order of September 14, 2021, directing that Swiggy's applications for refund be considered. "Article 265 mandates that collection of tax has to be by the authority of law. If the tax is collected without any authority of law, it will amount to depriving a person of his property and infringe on his right under Article 300A of the Constitution of India as well," the court said.

Command Centre will cover 14 departments that deal directly with the public

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and Bengaluru Smart City Limited have launched an Integrated Command Control Centre (ICCC) in BBMP's head office to ensure that citizens get all information at the click of a button from one location, Palike chief commissioner Gaurav Gupta said here on Friday.

Information from all sources will be formatted and disseminated from here.

The aim is that all works in the city should be found on the ICCC, an integrated interface, by citizens who can access information from all the departments, he said. The centre has been set up at a cost of Rs 90 crore.

The interface is a decision support system, and information from various departments and applications is collected, collaborated and analysed for better planning of the city. Information and communication technology is the backbone of the system.

The intelligence engines will process and synchronise all related information to generate insights which will help manage incidents across the city. This will pave the way for better planning of the city's developments.

The ICCC implementation will cover 14 departments that directly deal with the public, like BBMP, Bescom, BWSSB, BMTC, BMRCL, BTP, BCP, Karnataka State Pollution Control Board, Health department and Bengaluru Traffic Police. ICCC, inspired by the traffic management centre, is integrated with various IT systems of different stakeholders. Its objective is to enhance safety, security and provide better public services in the city.

Officials said ICCC will provide city officials, decision-makers, city administrators and citizens a one-stop shop from where they can view the health of the city and take evidence-based decisions in their day-to-day operations, emergency or large-scale situations.

Draft of new fiscal rules released; open for opinion

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE state government on Thursday issued a draft notification of the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (Fiscal Responsibility and Budget Management Rules) 2021, giving 30 days' window for opinions before releasing the final gazette notification.

The government will make the proposed rules by exercising its powers under sub-section (1) of section 8 of the Karnataka local fund authorities Fiscal Responsibility Act, dated September 28, 2021.

"This will be an instrument to bring financial discipline in BBMP. It will ensure that the expenditure does not exceed the income and the budget is based on the revenues generated in the last fiscal year. With this, the BBMP cannot show extra expenditure for gains. It will have to manage its expenditure based on actual revenue generated. This is ensure better accountability. The impact of the rules will be seen in the upcoming BBMP budget preparation," a senior government official told TNIE.

There have been many instances in the past where the BBMP has shown excess expenditure in projects like road repair or civic works to raise more revenue, but have landed up incurring huge loans.

"The new rules will put a check on the tendency to go over board in showing budget scales, fictitious sources of revenue generation, leading to debts and budget outlays overshooting which have been done in the past," the official added.

BBMP chief commissioner Gaurav Gupta said that he was pleased that the proposed rules, which the BBMP and the finance department have worked on for 1.5 years, have been accepted.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU Metro is looking at a ridership of 17,000 daily in the entire Phase-II – IIA (Central Silk Board to K R Puram) and IIB (K.R Puram to Airport) -- which is slated to be ready by 2024-2025 fiscal, said BMRCL Managing Director Anjum Parwez. He said that daily ridership currently stood at around 3.5 lakh commuters, and was inching towards pre-Covid figures.

Responding to a question on the 37-km line between Sarjapur and Hebbal announced by the CM in the state budget, the MD said, "For every 10 km of network, we carry 1.5 lakh people. So, for 37 km we are looking at a ridership between 4 lakh to 5 lakh." It might be ready by 2027-2028, he added. The process of preparing tenders to appoint a consultancy for a Detailed Project Report was on, he added.

The Outer Ring Road would be covered fully by BMRCL with the Western part of the road taken care of by the JP Nagar-Hebbal stretch proposed in Phase-3 while the Eastern side will be covered by the Central Silk Board to KR Puram line of Phase-2. "The possibility of having a separate line running to the airport from Hebbal will be explored in future," he added. Traffic department has given its approval to BMRCL for plying their vehicles carrying construction material during the day too.

PETER VIDAL

12th March : My last word on Aquarius, which I spoke about yesterday. Many astrologers say that we are entering the Age of Aquarius, an era ruled by peace, love and spiritual growth. This is a nice thought but I am not so sure. I think the world will carry on in its own way, and it is up to us to make it a better place.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)

To get the very best out of everything that the day offers, you must find a way of being tremendously creative, spontaneous and artistic on the one hand, utterly responsible and down-to-earth on the other. I know you can manage it! After all, you're the best!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)

You may have to bite your tongue and hold certain thoughts back. Actually, if you make the slightest effort to be more charming than usual, partners will be completely taken in. With the right approach, you'll be able to persuade people the earth is flat!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

The most impressive planetary formation still urges you to take note of the truth, and that's not always easy; I think that you can do with some additional emotional support. However, you may share in a generally lively and potentially colourful day. Make the most of it.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

You must find the will-power to resist a dangerous temptation. I don't think you'll have too much difficulty, for Saturn, that most puritanical of planets, is constantly hovering in the background. Your public status and reputation concern you more than you sometimes admit!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)

Finally, and at long last, many events, developments and feelings which have been shrouded in mystery or locked in the realms of the unconscious will rise to the surface. Hopefully, all your questions should be answered before long: some of the answers may be staring you in the face!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)

There is now a strong chance that you could begin to reap the rewards of past efforts, including financial ambitions. It looks very much as if you'll do best to keep certain information to yourself, if only because friends and partners seem incapable of understanding even the clearest statements.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)

The next few days may be emotionally challenging as memories from the distant past are revived. Focus on those that are pleasing and pay no attention to those that evoke a sense of injustice, encouraging resentment and jealousy. Continue to strike a balance where and when you can.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)

Strange as it may seem to anyone who knows you well, there are people who seem to think that you sail through life without a care in the world. The fact remains, though, that at present your chart indicates few problems, certainly none which is insurmountable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)

Although powerful professional stars suggest that many of you will be putting in a spot of overtime, the real issues may revolve around legal questions or an issue of principle. As a matter of interest, travel is favoured today, so do make an early start.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)

It could be said that you are expecting substantial rewards for all you have gone through. Indeed, if there is any justice, you will receive praise and gifts galore, but the stars are moving slowly, so be patient. Your greatest asset is your charm - so make the most of it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)

Everyone, no matter what their birth sign, is implicated by current down-to-earth planets. But only you know what must be done - at least as far as your most treasured ambitions are concerned. A new offer will hold out the promise of a sustained increase in earnings and investments, but keep a pinch of salt nearby.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)

Why not go the whole hog and let others see that you are perfectly able to cope with anything they can throw at you. After all, you have seen it all before. In addition, you are probably instinctively right about the likely outcome. That, at least, should offer some reassurance.

Covid shrinks parts of brain, finds Oxford study

Results in fog, loss of concentration, smell; explains Long Covid

CHETANA BELAGERE
@ Bengaluru:

A medical staff collects swab samples from a man in Bengaluru

A unique study published in the journal Nature this week, said that Covid-19 causes some regions of the brain to shrink. This study has surprised many neurologists, who want to dig deeper into its findings.

The study was done by researchers at Wellcome Centre for Integrative Neuroimaging at the University of Oxford. They studied magnetic resonance images taken before and during the pandemic, to compare morphological changes in brains of people who'd recovered from mostly mild cases of Covid, with those who hadn't contracted it.

The study found Covid-associated brain damage in regions linked to smell, with a decrease equivalent to as much as a decade of normal aging. "The changes were also linked to cognitive decline," the researchers stated in the study.

Dr Sreekanta Swamy, Head of Neurology, Aster RV Hospital, told TNIE, "This is a very sophisticated study wherein MRI machines were all of the same type and same strength. According to this study, the brain shrinks by about less than 1 per cent, compared to before Covid infection, which is probably the reason why people develop fog, lack of concentration, lack of smell, etc."

He explained that this study offers an explanation for patients developing 'Long Covid' symptoms. The frontal part of the brain controls memory and smell, so people have complaints of memory and concentration impairment, and smell defects.

According to neurologists, the study is important as it could probably explain why and how there is damage which is localised to the radius concerned with the symptoms.

Dr NK Venkataramana, Founder Chairman & Director, Neurosciences, Brains Hospital, said post-Covid, a variety of neurological problems and symptoms have been observed, including headache, migraine, epilepsy, stroke, Bell's palsy, brain fog and acute demyelinating syndrome of the spinal cord. "However, we do not have the experience of testing them for the presence of a virus. To the best of our knowledge, there is no such study in India. This study is interesting and could become a guideline for any study in future," he added.

Sridharan Devarajan, Associate Professor at the Centre for Neuroscience, IISc, says the study was well powered and has reasonable samples. He said he would probably dig deeper into the study. "Covid-19 is a SARS-CoV-2 virus and is known to attack the upper and lower respiratory tracts, depending on the variant. One question I would like to probe is whether the researchers looked into the patients' comorbidities, which are also said to be a reason for susceptibility to Covid infection," he said.

He explained that it may be interesting to know how much of this has directly compromised brain function. If the virus has affected the lungs and respiratory tracts, there is also the possibility of it disrupting blood flow to the brain.

The researchers explain that the brain is "plastic", meaning it's able to reorganise itself by forming new neural connections to compensate for injury. There's also emerging evidence that injured brain cells can undergo repair under the right conditions to help restore function.

Researchers and neurologists in India claim that further research is needed to determine the impact of Covid-19 on the central nervous system and other organ systems in Long Covid patients.

No proposal to develop Nimhans infra

Bengaluru: Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said the State Government has not received any proposal to develop more infrastructure at Nimhans, where patients queuing up for hours to avail treatment has become a common scene. Raising the issue during the zero hour, MLC K Harish Kumar said patients, not only from Karnataka but neighbouring states too, are facing hardship in getting timely treatment. He demanded that the government must take steps to develop infrastructure at the hospital. In a written reply, Sudhakar said, "If any proposal seeking improvement of infrastructure is received, the government will look into it."

SAFE HOME, BUT UKRAINE RETURNEES COULD BE PLAGUED BY TRAUMA

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

INDIA'S biggest concern in the ongoing Russia-Ukraine war has been to get its nationals, most of whom are students, safely back home. But there could be another bigger worry, surrounding their mental health, which needs to be identified and addressed at the earliest, said Dr K Sekar, consultant, Department of Psychosocial Support in Disaster Management, Nimhans.

"After the initial euphoria and heroic feeling of returning home safely, many of these students may face mental health issues such as depression, anxiety and post-trauma stress disorder (PTSD) intrusion, in which traumatic events of the war may repeatedly and uncontrollably invade their thoughts. They may want to avoid anything that reminds them of the trauma but may not be able to do so. Back home, they face an uncertain future because of temporary discontinuation of studies, and may go through a bout of emotions, like anger, sadness and frustration. In a majority of cases, their parents would have stretched themselves to the maximum and taken huge educational loans. This may be another reason for the students to be burdened with guilt," said the former senior professor of psychiatric social work.

He added that mental health issues of students may also translate into symptoms like hypervigilance (breathlessness, tremors and heart pounding). "People who have been in combat or have survived war can exhibit hypervigilance. It is part of PTSD. One needs to look out for these symptoms or any abnormal behaviour in the Ukraine returnees. Not just the students, their families may also go through mental health issues," said Sekar.

He added that it is important for the families to sit down together and voice their feelings. "It is important to ventilate. It helps in the healing process. The role of relatives, society and religious leaders/institutions is equally crucial in extending psychosocial support to them. They should be empathetic, not critical or judgmental. The families of these students can also become a support group. They can also call 080-46110007 – the toll-free helpline inclusively for psychosocial support and mental health services during disasters by Nimhans."

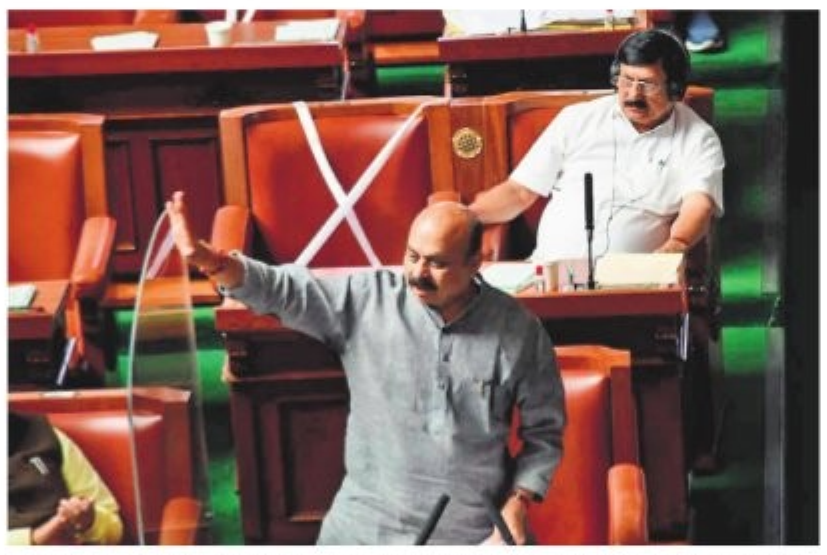
ANTI-INCUMBENCY NOT FOR BJP, SAYS BOMMAI

CM optimistic K'taka too will defy it and come back to power in 2023

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru



Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai speaks during the Legislative Assembly session at Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru on Friday

A day after the BJP's overwhelming victory in the Assembly elections to four of the five states, Karnataka Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai noted that the anti-incumbency factor, which ruling parties usually face during elections, does not affect the saffron party.

"The BJP is the only one that has the capability of coming back to power again and again, and that was proved again in the poll results of the four states," he said in the Assembly on Friday. He also expressed confidence that the party will come back to power in Karnataka after the 2023 polls.

Supporting Bommai's statement, his predecessor B S Yediyurappa said the party is confident of winning 140 seats in the next elections, and added the Congress will have to again sit in the opposition.

Siddaramaiah noted that in the four states, the BJP was already in power and it is not a big achievement to come back to power. To this, Bommai replied that due to anti-incumbency, most often, the ruling party loses the polls. "The BJP is the only party to come back to power, not twice or thrice, but again and again. Being in power and coming back to power is an achievement. In Karnataka too, we will achieve this and we will come back to power in 2023," he said.

He said that in the last 70 years, people have seen all political parties and they simply accepted whatever a party said. "It is not important what they speak, what is important is who is speaking. The BJP's work is speaking for itself," the CM added.

BSY vs Siddaramaiah

The Assembly on Friday witnessed a heated debate between two big guns — former chief ministers B S Yediyurappa and Siddaramaiah — on the recent polls.

Speaking on the state budget, Yediyurappa said the revenue deficit is due to Covid, lockdown and economic slowdown. But economic activities are improving. The State Government is borrowing loans just as it had done during Siddaramaiah's time. "Bommai has presented a good budget and we will go to the people with it. We are sure to win 140 seats and come back to power," he said.

Pointing at Siddaramaiah, Yediyurappa said the Congress is living in an illusion and they will have to sit in the opposition gallery permanently. During the heated debate, Yediyurappa even asked Siddaramaiah to take the names of national leaders of the Congress. "They seem to have no address," he said, adding that there is no leadership in the Congress.

On the Karnataka Congress unit, Yediyurappa said the state party leaders should be mentally prepared from now itself. "Congress-mukt Bharat has begun already in India and only in Karnataka, they are breathing to some extent. This will also come to an end after the 2023 polls," he said.

On his part, Siddaramaiah said the BJP leaders are living in an illusion and asked Yediyurappa whether he is living in a dream of becoming the CM again, and added that it will not happen. The BJP leader retorted saying, "I have not said that I will become CM again. I have already served as CM. The coming polls will be fought under Bommai's leadership."

Cabinet brainstorms on state govt defying anti-incumbency

BENGALURU: After discussing the agenda in the cabinet meeting on Friday, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and his cabinet colleagues informally discussed strategies to defy the anti-incumbency factor in Karnataka as was done by the BJP leadership in Uttar Pradesh and Goa. Bommai suggested that the programmes of the State Government should be taken to the people effectively to tackle the negative propaganda by the opposition Congress. Meanwhile, BJP national general secretary C T Ravi, who was desk in-charge of Goa Assembly polls, held a separate meeting with the CM and discussed the gameplan on winning the Assembly polls in Karnataka, based on the Goa model. Ravi suggested that the party organisation should be strengthened from the Old Mysuru Region to Chamarajanagar so as not to take any chances. "If we ignore this region, we may face a battering," he told Bommai.

'One Nation, One Election' vital for development: Ravi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BJP National General Secretary C T Ravi on Friday said they are confident of coming back to power in the state after the 2023 elections and they will take steps to further strengthen the party.

After the elections to the five states, Assembly polls will be held in Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh later this year, and in Karnataka and other states the next year. He advocated the need for implementing 'One Nation, One Election' for better administration and development.

The BJP leader said the party created a record by winning in Goa for the third time and it is a vote for nationalism, stable government and development. "Initially, I was apprehensive as for the first time, we were facing the elections without Manohar Parrikar. He was leading the party in the state from the beginning. However, people of the state identified his leadership with the party's principles and supported it," said Ravi.

Taking a dig at Congress leaders from Karnataka, who were in Goa, he said even before the results were announced, they had sought the Governor's appointment to stake claim to form the government.

Ravi hit out at Opposition Leader Siddaramaiah for blaming the Centre for student Naveen's death in Ukraine. "Over 20,000 students were evacuated safely from Ukraine. If Naveen had stayed in the bunker, he too would have returned safely, but unfortunately he had gone out and we don't know what was the situation there at that time," the BJP leader said.

Khader seeks Rs 25 lakh for martyred soldier

Congress MLA UT Khader said Havildar Altaf Ahmed from Kodagu died on duty during a snowstorm in Jammu and Kashmir recently, but the State Government has still not announced the Rs 25 lakh ex gratia given to the families of martyred soldiers. No compensation was also announced for Sameer Shahpur who was killed in a mob violence in Gadag, he added. "We know that the government discriminates in allotting grants. But do not make such discrimination in the case of deaths," he urged. Replying on behalf of the State Government, Law Minister J C Madhusamy said he will inform Home Minister Araga Jnanendra about the matter.

Confusion over annual income certificates

Former Speaker and senior Congress MLA K R Ramesh Kumar said people with an annual income of under Rs 32,000 are eligible to get houses under the Rajiv Gandhi Housing Scheme. But when they go to the Revenue Department, they are told that no income certificates can be issued for annual income of under Rs 45,000. Housing Minister V Somanna clarified that this happened only in Kolar and it has been rectified. He also said that the Rs 32,000 annual income is unscientific and they are planning to enhance it.

Action sought against fake seed distributors

BJP MLC N Ravikumar on Friday demanded that the government should initiate action against sellers of sub-standard and fake seeds. He said 8,500 quintals of sub-standard seeds, worth between Rs 12 and15 crore have been seized. "However, only 10 cases have been booked so far. The Agriculture Department should take the issue seriously," he added. Minister K S Eshwarappa, replying on behalf of Agriculture Minister B C Patil, said a meeting will be convened soon to address the issue. He also assured the council to look into the demand of establishing a seeds corporation on the lines of Maharashtra State Seeds Corporation Ltd.

BJP announces candidates for Legislative Council seats

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A day after the BJP victory in four of the five state Assembly elections, the party announced the list of candidates for the Legislative Council polls, expected to be held in June or July.

Out of four MLC seats going to the polls, the BJP announced the candidates for three -- two sitting MLCs, Arun Shahpur (North West Teachers' constituency) and Hanumant Rudrappa Nirani (North West Graduates' constituency), and former MLC M V Ravishankar (South Graduates' Constituency).

The party is yet to announce the candidate for the West Teachers' constituency, which is presently represented by Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti (JDS).

A senior BJP leader said there are attempts to lure Horatti into the BJP fold, but he has not made his intentions clear. Even the party top brass is keen on this. However, there is also opposition to giving a ticket to Horatti from the West Teachers' constituency. "While BJP leaders are keen on inducting him, local party workers are against it. This has not been resolved. Once it is done, the name will be announced," sources said.

Rumours of Horatti jumping ship to the BJP have been doing rounds for several months now. "There is also a demand from Horatti to allow him to continue as Council Chairman. This is also under consideration. But it all depends on Horatti and the Central leaders," sources said.

Govt wants local body polls with reservation for OBCs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE State Government on Friday informed the Legislative Council that it wants to hold elections to local bodies soon with reservation for Other Backward Communities (OBCs) and it has asked the Panchayat Raj Delimitation Committee, which is tasked with redrawing zilla and taluk panchayat boundaries, to submit its report at the earliest.

Replying to a question by JDS MLC Marithibbegowda, Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR) Minister K S Eshwarappa said the government intends to hold the elections soon, but wants the reservation for OBCs to stay.

"The Chief Minister has discussed the matter with legal experts. Also, the Panchayat Raj Delimitation Committee is yet to submit its report. Once the report is submitted, we will initiate further process to hold the elections," the minister said. He noted that the government had written to the Election Commission earlier to hold the ZP-TP polls, but had received 888 objections against the delimitation.

Opposition leader B K Hariprasad asked him to consider the Kantharaj committee report and submit it to the Supreme Court, which had ruled holding elections without reservations for OBCs, but only for SCs and STs.

In response, Eshwarappa targeted former CM Siddaramaiah. "When I was the opposition leader, I repeatedly requested then CM Siddaramaiah to submit the report, but he didn't. He cheated the OBCs," Eshwarappa said, adding that the government was also considering the Kantharaj committee report and whether its data was useful now.

336 illegal layouts on Bengaluru outskirts: KSE

RDPR Minister K S Eshwarappa informed the council that there are 336 illegal layouts on the outskirts of Bengaluru city. Replying to a question from Congress MLC P R Ramesh, the minister said 1,306 layouts were formed on converted lands in the limits of 86 gram panchayats in Bengaluru, of which, 336 were illegal.

Focus on one region, develop sport infra: MLC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DEPUTY leader of Opposition in the Council, K Govindaraju, suggested that the government should focus on a particular region to develop sport infrastructure.

During a discussion on the budget, the MLC pointed out that instead of announcing a few hundred crores to all districts to encourage sports, it will be effective if a particular region is identified in a financial year and all grants are channelised to build state-of-the-art sport complexes.

Govindaraju also lamented that Bengaluru does not even have a football stadium of international standards or a temperature-controlled indoor swimming pool. "The government's responsibility does not end at allocating grants, but it has to understand the needs of sportsmen and reciprocate," he said.

Further, he said the government must recruit more physical education teachers and coaches at the school level. "I have been suggesting introducing a sports cess, but even this has not been done. If a sports cess of one per cent is levied, the government can collect around Rs 400-500 crore which can be utilised to build infrastructure for sports," he added.

CABINET MEETING

Tiger reserve at MM forest deferred for now

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Cabinet on Friday deferred a proposal to develop a tiger reserve at Male Mahadeshwara forest, about 200km from Bengaluru, to a future date. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and a team of officials will speak to the stakeholders concerned, to discuss the pros and cons and look into the Union government's rules before they take a final call.

Some ministers warned against rushing ahead with the decision because there are human habitations around the designated area, which have to be factored in too.

The fifth cabinet meeting held this year revised the rules of the contentious Section 30 of the Karnataka Industrial Area Development Act for developing industrial lands, and decided to offer fairer and more timely compensation to land losers and farmers. It is expected to end the problem of litigation between Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board (KIADB) and farmers.

Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani has been pushing for this for at least 4-5 months.

The cabinet decided to utilise the services of retired IAS officer Naghath Tabassum for one more year on contract basis as director, under the Suvarna Health Programme.

Among other decisions, Handloom Development Corporation will be revived at a cost of Rs 45.73 crore, which is a long-pending demand of the weaver community.

There was no official cabinet briefing due to the session.

New Punjab govt will have its task cut out: Former bureaucrat

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

A Bengaluru-based former career bureaucrat and AAP leader, who had also served as secretary at Rastrapathi Bhavan, has outlined a roadmap for the Aam Aadmi Party in Punjab, where the party put up a phenomenal performance. Delhi, where the party is already in power, and Punjab are vastly different and so are the needs of both states, Renuka Vishwanathan told TNIE.

"Punjab's economy is full of paradoxes. The state has the highest per capita income, but it also has the highest budget deficit, and is forever seeking special Central funds to keep the government afloat,'' she explained.

"The best bet is to unleash the forces of good governance, collect every penny that is legally due and spend it thriftily. The removal of corrupt intermediaries has released a budgetary bonanza in Delhi, where the government has launched pro-poor initiatives without raising taxes. The same approach can work wonders in Punjab and give taxpayers the full benefit of current levies,'' she added.

As for the agriculture sector, Renuka said, "Farms are doubly drought-proofed — there is perennial canal irrigation and this is supplemented with borewell water. Environmentally sound policies are essential to prevent soil degradation and to conserve water. Availability of cheap power for irrigation pumpsets and diesel generators has always been a key concern for the farming community. My dream project for Punjab is the proliferation of decentralised village-level solar generation units backed up by the grid. It will transfer administrative responsibility from the state power utility to local panchayats which can meet the needs of households, local industries and irrigation pumpsets with cheap power.''

"Political fireworks can be expected when Mann's Cabinet fights battles for Minimum Support Price in the coming seasons. The AAP's move into Punjab will also ensure that the air pollution battle of Delhi will now be fought jointly by its two CMs.''

Existential crisis for BSP in K'taka after UP rout

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

THE Bahujan Samaj Party's dismal show in Uttar Pradesh has come as a rude shock to the party leaders in Karnataka, raising questions over its prospects in the state. The Dalits in the state, particularly those associated with the Bahujan movement for the past 20 years feel let down after the party's worst ever drubbing in UP.

The BSP had managed to win the lone Kollegal seat in the 2018 elections with a 3.72 per cent vote share. Perhaps, seeing the writing on the wall the lone MLA N Mahesh switched sides to BJP.

The Old Mysuru region has a history of Dalit movement after the erstwhile Wadiyars introduced reservation based on the Miller's Commission recommendations. The BSP had even wooed veteran leaders like P G R Scindia and former minister D T Jayakumar to contest on the party ticket. However, many frontline leaders including Gopal, Shankar and C S Dwarkanath deserted the party over the years to join the Congress and other parties. Party insiders say that many may now look to shift loyalties unless the party can rejuvenate itself and groom the next line of leaders.

The BJP, which is keen to woo the most backwards castes, sees an opportunity to expand its base by levering on the disillusionment among BSP workers.

Senior BSP leader Mohan Kumar explained that the Dalit population is not evenly spread in Karnataka. "We will meet soon, introspect and redraw our strategies to ensure BSP's victory in the pockets where we are strong," he added.

Centre using edu to push regressive ideas, says Stalin

Says education should be back on State list

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Coimbatore

TAMIL Nadu Chief Minister M K Stalin on Friday alleged that the Union Government was using education to "push its regressive ideologies" and education must be moved back to the State list from the Concurrent list to stop this.

During his virtual guest of honour address at the Association of Indian University (AIU), South Zone Vice Chancellors' Meet at Bharathiar University on Friday, Stalin said, "People of Tamil Nadu want universities to function as per the education policy followed in the State. Vice-Chancellors must understand this and act accordingly. Currently, universities are functioning with the aim to produce graduates and get good rank in national and international assessments. But I would like to remind everyone that we have a bigger responsibility to equip students to become job-ready," he said.

Pointing out that Tamil Nadu is a pioneer in higher education, Stalin said former Chief Minister M Karunanidhi abolished entrance exams, which was a barrier for students aspiring to join professional courses, and helped those from humble backgrounds reach greater heights. "As a descendant of Dravidian movement, my government's aim is to eradicate slavery of women and empower them to be socially and economically independent. Education is the key to attaining it. Tamil Nadu stands first in the country in women's empowerment by opening many women's colleges, giving approval for co-education institutions, creating separate university for women, fee concession for women students in UG, PG and PhD courses, training institutions for all-India services aspirants, and offering computer training for employability," Stalin said.

Sasikala gets bail in spl treatment case

Former AIADMK leader VK Sasikala at the Nimishamba temple in Srirangapatna on Friday | EXPRESS

FORMER Tamil Nadu Chief Minister J Jayalalithaa's aide and expelled AIADMK leader VK Sasikala and her sister-in-law J Ilavarasi were on Friday granted bail by a special court dealing with anti-corruption cases in connection with the alleged preferential treatment given to them during their jail term in the Bengaluru Central Prison in Parappana Agrahara.

The court ordered the duo to deposit a bond of Rs 3 lakh each and a surety of Rs 5 lakh, and have been told to appear before it on April 16.

The Anti-Corruption Bureau, which had investigated the case, had recently submitted the chargesheet to the court naming Sasikala, Ilavarasi, and others, including jail officials, as accused. It charged that Sasikala and Ilavarasi were given special facilities in the jail and were treated like VVIPs.

In 2017, the then Deputy Inspector General of Police (Prison) D Roopa had claimed that Sasikala was given preferential treatment and she was allowed to wear civil dresses instead of uniform prescribed for prisoners.

An inquiry was conducted by a retired IAS officer on the directives of the State Government which revealed that a separate kitchen functioned for her inside the jail.

"IN the present case, the only provision which permits depositing an amount during the pendency of an investigation is Section 74(5) of the CGST Act, which was not applied in the case. Therefore, it is evident that the amount has been collected from Swiggy in violation of Articles 265 and 300-A of the Constitution. Therefore, the contention of the Department that the amount be made subject to the outcome of the pending investigation cannot be accepted. The Department, therefore, is liable to refund the amount to the company", the court said.

The tax amount collected from Swiggy was deposited with the government, pending investigation with regard to services provided to the company by a third party, Green Finch Team Management (P) Ltd. An investigation was initiated by the Director General of Goods and Services Tax Intelligence (DGCI), Hyderabad zonal unit, with regard to services provided to Swiggy by Green Finch as per a 2017 agreement.

The investigation was launched on the ground that Green Finch was a non-existent entity and accordingly, the input tax credit availed by Swiggy and the GST component paid by it against the invoices raised by Green Finch were fraudulent. During the course of the investigation, Rs 15 crore was deposited by Swiggy under the GST and also Rs 12.51 crore to secure the release of three directors of the company.

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

KERALA BUDGET IS A MISSED OPPORTUNITY

The exercise of preparing the annual Budget is a tightrope walk that our finance ministers dutifully indulge in once every year. The pandemic-induced economic crisis has made that task considerably tougher. Given the state’s precarious financial situation, the Kerala Budget for 2022–23, presented by Finance Minister K N Balagopal on Friday, appears more realistic but stands out for the singular lack of new ideas and a long-term vision. While its focus on the knowledge economy, skill development and higher education must be positively acknowledged, the FM has failed to come up with adequate proposals to address the state’s biggest problems—debt burden and lack of new revenue sources. Balagopal has addressed, though unconvincingly, the other big problem—unemployment—when he mentioned that the ‘Knowledge Economy Mission’ would create 20 lakh job opportunities. The fact is knowledge economy is not just about IT and skill parks. And the FM proposed to set up more IT parks when large areas in the existing facilities are lying vacant.

What the Budget documents also make distressingly clear is the continuing increase in public debt. As of now, Kerala’s cumulative debt stands at ₹3.34 lakh crore, which is 37% of the GSDP. And that will rise to ₹3.72 lakh crore in 2022–23. For paying interest alone, the state shelled out ₹22,115 crore this fiscal. And the interest liability is projected to grow to ₹25,967 crore next fiscal. The Budget is also conspicuously silent on the much-needed cost-cutting, given the bankrupt state treasury, and there are no major measures to increase revenue, apart from the paltry ₹60 crore it hopes to collect through a 1% hike in tax on motorcycles, ₹200 crore through a 10% increase in fair value of land and a few more minor proposals. Another area the Budget did not give enough attention to is the tourism sector that has been severely crippled by Covid. Some sops or subsidies to travel and hospitality players could have helped revive the sector that contributes 10% of the GSDP and accounts for 23.5% of the jobs. All things considered, the FM has played it safe, but more was required given the state of Kerala’s economy. Considering that this is the first full Budget of the second Pinarayi government, the FM has sorely failed to grab the opportunity to lay a sound long-term plan for economic revival.

TOO EARLY TO WRITE OFF CASTE IN POLITICS

The result of the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections has generated premature obituaries of caste politics. There’s talk of development politics trumping traditional voting patterns and the consequent dawn of an era of pro-incumbency. Caste, however, continues to play a critical role in Indian elections. There can be no better example of this than the way Jats of western UP have voted. Dire predictions were made about the prospects of the BJP in the region. It was claimed that the party would be wiped out in western UP after the agitation against the three farm laws, which were said to be a direct attack on the livelihood of the people of this predominantly agrarian region. But there was a problem in this reading of the situation. It saw Jats merely as farmers. It ignored the fact that the community has been deeply entrenched in the local power structure. It has dominated all tiers of panchayati raj institutions with the help of the BJP. The funds of village, block and district panchayats, and the cooperatives have remained in the hands of Jat leaders. This has been made possible only due to the alliance Jats struck with the BJP after the decline of the party belonging to Chaudhary Charan Singh and his son. Thus the Jats voted as a community and not as farmers.

The other big caste play was seen in Mayawati’s BSP. The growing chasm within the state’s Dalit communities came to the fore. While the dominant Jatavs largely stayed with the BSP, the non-Jatav Dalits moved to the BJP and the SP alliance. The dominance of Jatavs in the BSP has long been resented by the non-Jatav Dalits and their desertion was one of the main reasons for the party’s worst-ever performance.

The Brahmin community, which was reportedly upset with the BJP, was wooed vigorously by the BSP. But it stayed with the BJP as the BSP did not appear to be the winning party. The Rajputs, once strong allies of the SP under Mulayam Singh Yadav, backed their caste kin Yogi Adityanath lock, stock and barrel. Similarly, the Yadavs voted overwhelmingly for the SP. The role of caste in politics could be written off at one’s own peril.

Civis romanus sum established that to be a Roman citizen meant something special. The same is happening now in India

OPERATION GANGA & THE EMERGENCE OF CIVIS INDICUS SUM

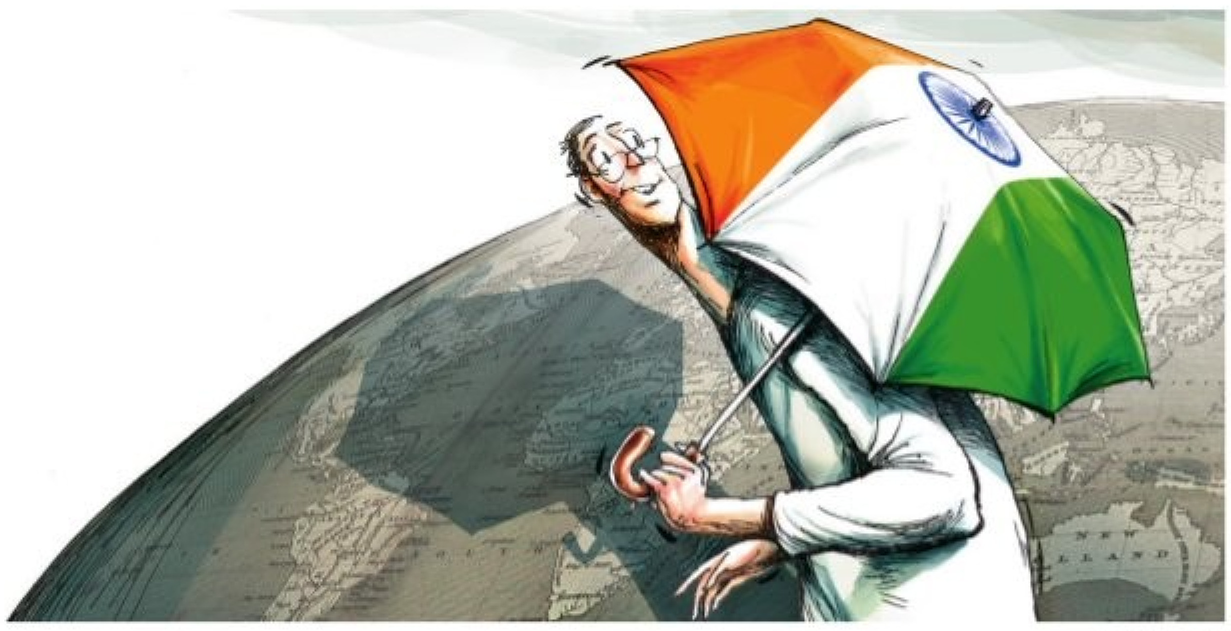
HINDOL SENGUPTA

VP & Head of Research at Invest India, GoI’s national investment promotion agency



SOUMYADIP SINHA

For many years, as India grew and the country acquired nuclear weapons and came to be regarded as one of the world’s about-to-become leading economies, I often asked this question in print and TV: Would the country be able to develop a new way of looking at its citizens and their well-being?

In the Roman world, we find the Latin phrase civis romanus sum, meaning ‘I am a Roman citizen’. This is found in Cicero’s In Verrem as the plea of a Roman citizen for the upkeep and sanctity of their legal rights across the empire. Simply, just the fact that one was a citizen of Rome made a vital difference to one’s safety and legal rights across the empire.

This has always seemed to me an integral part of any country that is rising or intends to grow on the global stage. After all, if a country cannot protect its own citizens, what guarantees could it possibly offer the world?

Therefore, my point always has been that not only must India protect its citizens no matter where they are, but also should be seen to be doing so—not just as a humanitarian act but because of the simple fact that they are Indians. Their citizenship in a sense comes with that protection, the sense that the state is there to safeguard them.

This essay argues that Operation Ganga—for evacuating Indian students from Ukraine—is a sign of a developing civis indicus sum or evidence of the value and protection that comes from being an Indian citizen.

The nation has evacuated citizens before, most notably from Kuwait after the Iraqi invasion in 1990 but such stories are few in independent India’s history and never spoken of as something that the state offers (rather than an ad hoc measure). Some of this narrative and approach started to change with foreign minister Sushma Swaraj (under Prime Minister Narendra Modi) who used Twitter as an effective mode of constant communication with any citizen who needed help in any part of the world. The late Swaraj tweeted in 2017: “Even if you are stuck on the Mars, Indian Embassy there will help you.”

With Operation Ganga, the Indian state has not only moved resources like planes to help in the evacuation but also sent off different ministers to various parts of Europe bordering Ukraine to ensure that the country’s students can cross over to safety.

In the Roman world, we find the Latin phrase civis romanus sum, meaning ‘I am a Roman citizen’. Just the fact that one was a citizen of Rome made a vital difference to one’s safety and legal rights across the empire. This has always seemed to me an integral part of any country that is rising or intends to grow on the global stage. After all, if a nation cannot protect its own citizens, what guarantees could it possibly offer the world?

These ministers have personally been present at airports to see off the students and spoken to them inside aircrafts to lift their spirits and vocalise the promise that the government was with them at every step and would do all that was possible to ensure their safety, no matter where they were stuck.

The idea of conducting this mission in full public view and with vocal commitment from the highest levels of the Indian government is an exercise in establishing the country’s sovereign duties and showcasing behaviour expected from a rising power with ample resources.

India has sought to display in a way the same thing that it showcased in its vaccine diplomacy during the Covid pandemic—a sense of responsibility even when caught in actions that it had no role in triggering and ensuring that the idea of safety for human life is placed at a premium.

The era of civis indicus sum, therefore, is now upon us when the value of the safety and security of Indian citizens comes backed with the assurance of a state that is one of the largest democracies and economies of the world.

This is a moment of psychological transition within the machinery of the Indian state and in the way the country looks at itself and what it turns to its government for—it must be noted that several other nations with similarly stuck citizenry in Ukraine have struggled to make such arrangements.

The Indian citizen, the hungry, lonely and scared student in Ukraine, though, has been able to count on the spirit of civis indicus sum.

CLOTHES DON’T MAKE THE MAN OR WOMAN

NANDITHA KRISHNA

Historian, environmentalist and writer based in Chennai

The hijab controversy is sad. We have a group of modern young women who want to dress in what they believe was worn in the 7th century. And they would rather sacrifice their education for it. It was never worn in the 7th century, nor was it ordained back then.

South Indian Muslim women did not cover themselves with either a hijab or burkha. Older women covered their heads with saris or a white cloth worn over the sari. Young girls dressed like their Hindu peers in a pavadai chokka and later a pavadai davani. The burkha was worn by Hyderabadi Muslim women and those in central and north India. It was only with the migration of people to the Middle East in search of jobs that the south Indian Muslim men learned about the hijab and burkha and started making their wives and daughters cover themselves in black veils, which came as a shock in the liberal atmosphere of the south.

Initially, we did not have uniforms in our schools. Then we started noticing the difference between boys and girls who came in Levi’s jeans and others who bought their clothes off the racks in Mylapore. To avoid this obvious discrimination, we introduced a uniform, including black socks and shoes that don’t have to be polished every day. Occasionally, a student would wear a hijab over her head and we ignored it. But we definitely banned the all-covering burkha. After all, the teacher must be able to see the face of the student.

I went through Quranic injunctions about women’s clothes. Nothing in the Quran tells women to cover their heads or hair. The Quran does not order wearing the veil. The word hijab in the Quran is used (a) as a screen in the Prophet’s house that separated his wives from those who would be visiting him, to ensure their privacy; (b) as a veil through which God speaks to human beings; and (c) as a veil that God erects to separate non-believers from believers.

The only dress mandate in the Quran is for women to cover their chests with their coverings (khimar): “And say to the believing women to lower their gaze and to guard their private parts and not to show their beauty spots except that of it which is normally shown. They shall also cover their chests with their khimar” (Quran 24:31). The Quran only orders women to draw the khimar over the chest and this was because many women at that time were topless in the hot desert sun. The words ‘hair’ and ‘head’ are not found in 24:31.

The custom of Muslim women covering their heads was actually borrowed from the Greeks, Byzantines and the Persian Sassanian empires. This custom started in the 8th century during the rule of the Abbasids. Covering one’s hair became a sign of nobility. Thereafter, religious scholars started equating covering the head with religious obligation, despite there being no such command in the Quran. It was an ideal opportunity for patriarchy to rear its head.

I do believe a uniform is essential in schools so that all children are equal in the eyes of their teachers. I would recommend it for colleges too because some girls follow the latest fashion while others can barely afford a change of clothes. However, college students are women with voting rights and must learn to cope with difficult situations.

The hijab is an uncomfortable yet harmless addition that, when given freedom, a woman will herself discard. ... Is the current controversy necessary? Ban the burkha, but the hijab is an uncomfortable yet harmless addition that, when given freedom, a woman will herself discard.

I would like to see our traditional clothes that are disappearing in the onrush of Western dresses. How many girls wear a pavadai chokka or davani? How many boys wear a veshti? Our boys and men have adopted the ubiquitous trousers and our women the sari. Each state and community in India once had its own way of tying a sari. The six-yard sari we wear today was ‘invented’ by Jnanadanandini Devi (1850–1941), Rabindranath Tagore’s sister-in-law. Her husband Satyendranath Tagore (Rabindranath Tagore’s elder brother) was the first Indian officer of the Indian Civil Services who was posted to Bombay province. Getting permission to travel with her husband and deciding what she should wear were big challenges for her, but her Satyendranath was very supportive. “If you have to change your mode of dress,” he wrote, “please do not hesitate.” Jnanadanandini observed English blouses with sleeves, ribbons and brooches, and the Parsi blouses and petticoats under their embroidered Chinese silk garas. She adopted the Gujarati style of tying the sari by bringing the pallu around her body. She brought the pallu forward and threw it over her chest and left shoulder instead since she was right-handed. She added frontal pleats, a brooch, the petticoat—a novelty—and the style became known as modern, educated, privileged, Thakurbari, etc.

In fact, in the early 20th century, the sign of an educated woman was this modern sari. My late grandmother Saraswathi Pattabhiraman, who studied at the University of Cambridge, was constantly subjected to Rukmini Devi Arundale’s disapproval as to why she wore a nine-yard Aiyar sari (and diamond nose rings) when she was an educated woman. But my grandmother refused to change, saying that her education had nothing to do with her clothes.

Clothes don’t make the man or woman. But education does. My grandmother educated her four daughters and let them take up jobs in their chosen fields, believing that it was important for all girls to study. They voluntarily gave up the traditional nine-yard sari. Maybe education will make Muslim women discard the hijab.

Decisive mandates

It was heartening to see the electorate of most of the states give resounding and decisive mandates to one party or pre-poll alliance. This has ensured that sordid and unholy post-poll alliances just for the sake of power, such as the MVA in Maharashtra, do not happen. Indian democracy is maturing with time and it is good to see many incumbent governments getting voted back to office. When politicians and parties recognise that the electorate rewards good governance and performance, they will automatically strive to deliver that. After all, every politician and party wants to win elections and be in office.

Cong mishandled Punjab

Both the BJP and AAP have performed exceptionally well, the former by retaining all the four states ruled by it and the latter by winning the Punjab polls with a comfortable majority. The Congress suffered a humiliating defeat in Punjab where its Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi and the PCC Chief Navjot Singh Sidhu lost, the former in both the constituencies he contested from. The Congress high command mishandled the situation by asking the then CM Capt Amarinder Singh to step down from office.

Double-engine govt

This is with reference to BJP steamroller and emergence of the AAP factor (Mar 11). The Modi-Yogi double engine is going great guns. It is their growth and development agenda that led to the victory. Those opposition parties, which only opposed the government with nothing concrete or constructive to offer to the people, were trounced. The BJP’s victory in four out of the five states is spectacular and epoch-making. Similarly, the AAP’s win in Punjab, demolishing the incumbent Congress to come to power for the first time ever in the state, is stunning. Congratulations to the victors.

Victory of development

The landslide win of the BJP in UP is the victory of development and law and order in the state. The sincere performance by the Yogi government has proved it. This election has also broken the myth of caste politics. People want a peaceful atmosphere in the state. The government did what it promised but now it has to shoulder more responsibilities. It has to put the state on the path of progress, generate more employment opportunities and instil confidence among citizens that everyone would be treated equally irrespective of caste and religion.

Go beyond Nehru family

The Congress, in the Nehru family’s own state of Uttar Pradesh, has performed very poorly. Propaganda against the prime minister has not worked. A suitable chief from outside the Nehru family should be appointed. Otherwise the Congress will disappear in the years to come.

The rise of AAP

The electorate of Punjab showed great maturity by choosing the AAP instead of any other national/regional party. The victory of Arvind Kejriwal’s party is one of the greatest achievements by a regional outfit in recent times. The anti-BJP parties should introspect and come up with a reliable alliance next time. The biggest casualty in these elections to the five states has been the rudderless grand old party.

Learn from Kejriwal

If the BJP wants to retain power in Karnataka, it has to monitor the welfare schemes for the poor and needy. Party workers should personally visit the poor households and check whether they really benefit from the welfare schemes. Medical benefits and the ration system should be augmented and improved for the needy. In fact, the AAP is doing this to win the hearts of the poor.

Fear of the Lokpal

This is with reference to the opinion article A case for reforming Lokpal and Lokayukta (Mar 9). The legislature, executive and judiciary have all had a role in watering down the efficacy of the Lokpal-Lokayukta system in India. Political parties of all hues fear that any empowerment of the system will affect their hegemony.

ASSEMBLY ELECTION 2022 DECIDE

Women MLAs double in Punjab, from 6 to 13

CHANDIGARH: Representation of women in Punjab assembly has doubled, from six to 13. There are 11 from AAP and one each from SAD and Congress. A total of 93 women had contested these polls. Of the 2.14 voters, 1.02 crore are women. AAP had fielded 12 women candidates and 11 of them won. Top of the list was first-timer Jeevan Jyot Kaur, who defeated Navjot Sidhu and Bikram Singh Majithia.

Mamata says UP EVMs should be tested

KOLKATA: Mamata Banerjee said BJP's victory in UP is not a reflection of the people's verdict. She suggested SP chief Akhilesh Yadav should seek forensic tests of the EVMs. "'There was vote loot. Akhilesh should seek forensic tests of the EVMs. SP's vote percentage increased from 20% to 37% this time," said the West Bengal chief minister.

Two out of two for debutant Kuki party

GUWAHATI: In less than two months of inception, a tribe-based party in Manipur made its way to the Assembly. The victory of Kuki People's Alliance (KPA) in the two seats it contested made ethnic divisions in the state more visible. The KPA appeals to the aspirations of the Kuki tribe. The odds were against it after several militant organisations had come out openly in support of a certain political party.

Non-Yadav OBCs favouring BJP upsets calculations of other parties in Uttar Pradesh

BJP reaps dividend of caste calculus

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

BJP'S victory in Uttar Pradesh has once again proved its dexterous caste calculus, riding which created history by returning to power. Before 2022, the caste arithmetic of the saffron party would comprise a powerful bloc of upper castes with non-Yadav OBCs and non-Jatav SCs. It paid dividends since 2014. But 2022 seems to be a bit exceptional.

With its non-OBC voting bloc intact, the reach of BJP's caste calculus expanded with the shift of a respectable chunk of Jatavs into its fold. Jatavs have traditionally been core voters of the Bahujan Samaj Party, which stands decimated with just one seat.

Consequently, this new social coalition has broken all previous records and BJP has not only won the seats handsomely, but also increased its vote share from 39.67 per cent in 2017 to 42.4 per cent. However, it also suffered reverses in some pockets where Samajwadi Party's core voters — Muslims and Yadavs — were the deciding factor.

In the run-up to 2022, almost all parties, including SP, BSP and Congress, looked to consolidate the OBC community in their favour as this bloc accounts for over 40-45% of UP's population. Not surprisingly, all parties fielded between 120 to 160 OBC candidates.

As per political analysts, efforts to woo OBCs gained momentum after BJP was hit by a series of desertions by OBC leaders like Swami Prasad Maurya, Dara Singh Chauhan and Dharam Singh Saini. They all joined SP. However, SP did not benefit from these as Maurya and Saini lost.

The OBCs, who form a formidable chunk of the population in UP, emerged as a formidable pressure group against the socio-economically strong Yadavs, by consolidating behind BJP in 2017. Around 58 per cent non-Yadav OBCs had voted for them back then. This figure went up in 2022, as around 65 per cent OBCs voted for BJP.

This increased consolidation of non-Yadav OBCs in favour of BJP resulted in realignment of caste forces triggered by the palpable aggressiveness among Yadavs ahead and during the elections.

This time, even Akhilesh Yadav tried to win over non-Yadav OBCs through alliances and induction of backward leaders into SP. In fact, the SP chief also aimed at washing off the tag of being a party dominated by Yadavs. However, he failed to get desired results.

Akhilesh's move to strike a tie-up with estranged BJP ally SBSP of Om Prakash Rajbhar and induction of expelled BSP leaders like Ram Achal Rajbhar and Lalji Verma were signs of his revised strategy.

The growing political assertion of non-Yadavs is acknowledged by the parties who understand their significance. Growing representation of OBC ministers in the previous Yogi cabinet and current Modi cabinet is the reflection of their political significance.

AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal hugs to-be Punjab CM Bhagwant Mann on Friday | PTI

Super show in SC belts takes AAP to power in battleground Punjab

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

THE Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) tsunami in Punjab included victory in over 85% of the reserved seats. It won 29 of these 34 constituencies. This indicates that the state's Scheduled Caste population reposed faith in the party which promised change. Punjab has the largest density of SC population in the country. Over 33% of the state's inhabitants are from these communities.

AAP's victory in 29 of these seats is the highest-ever by any party. Congress won four and Shiromani Akali Dal one. All the SC seats in Malwa region went to AAP. The SC population there is 31%. Leader of Opposition and AAP leader Harpal Singh Cheema won from Dirba and deputy leader Sarvjit Kaur Manuke from Jagoran. Labh Sigh Ugoke defeated Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi from Bhadaur and Channi also lost to Charanjit Singh from Chamkaur Sahib. Kulwant Singh Bazigar won from Shutrana, Gurdev Singh Dev Mann from Nabha and Kulwant Singh Pandori from Mehal Kalan.

The story was similar in the Doaba and Majha regions. Political analyst Professor Jagrup Singh Sekhon said, "The SC community feels this new party is better than traditional parties. They will work sincerely and implement the Delhi model, as this community feels that their children will get better education healthcare services. The Channi (who belongs to the SC community) card failed due to the poor performance of the Congress government and involvement of Channi's relative in mining cases which is a very serious issue in the state."

AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal had promised free education for children from the SC communities and also said that if voted to power, his government would bear their coaching fees for higher studies.

The SC communities have 39 sub-castes and of these, five constitute more than 80% of the SC population — Mazhabi Sikhs 30%, Ravidasias 24%, Ad Dharmis 11%, Valmikis 10% and Rai Sikhs 6%, as per a report by the Union Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment released in 2018.

Women propel saffron surge in UP

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

IT was not without the reason that PM Narendra Modi extended his gratitude to the other half of population after BJP's win in Uttar Pradesh. The saffron brigade retaining power can be attributed to women, who seem to have consolidated behind the party over a slew of issues, including free ration, gas cylinders and improved law and order.

This silent bloc of voters stood account for 40% of the electorate in UP. They rose above caste and social barriers and even went beyond the familial patriarchal call to side with the Yogi government, which sent them ration twice a month, ensured their security and provided them with houses and toilets (izzat ghar).

Out of the UP's 15 crore voters, nearly 7 crore are women, according to the latest Election Commission data. Women, who used to play a much smaller role in elections earlier, are becoming more aware of their political choices and that has led to their increased participation over the years.

In UP this time, the average voting percentage of women was more than their male counterparts. Over 62.2% women voted as against 59. 6% men.

Even promises of freebies including 300 units of free electricity by Samajwadi Party failed to make any difference. After realising that Yogi government's free ration was working wonders on the ground, SP chief Akhilesh Yadav announced his government would also provide free ration if voted to power. At the same time, SP kept reminding women voters that BJP's free ration scheme would get over in March. But this ploy failed to drift women away from the saffron camp. While the Modi government sent free ration to the poor, the Yogi government doubled it up with ration from its own end.

Improved law and order had a great resonance on the ground across the state, especially in western UP. The anti-Romeo squad seemed to have instilled fear among goons who used to harass women and girls. Women in rural pockets were impressed by the houses they got under PM Awas Yojna. They believed that living conditions would be better under BJP.

Mann to take oath as CM in village of Bhagat Singh

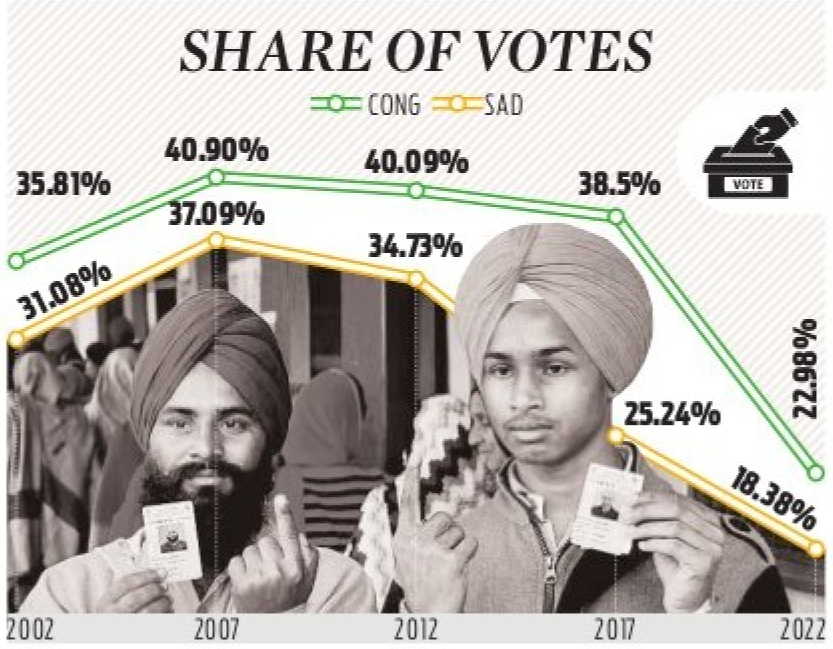
EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi/Chandigarh

BHAGWANT Mann of AAP will take oath as Punjab Chief Minister on March 16. The ceremony will take place at Khatkar Kalan, the ancestral village of freedom fighter Bhagat Singh.

"My younger brother Bhagwant Mann will be taking oath as the Punjab's Chief Minister. He had come to my residence to invite me for the oath ceremony. I am sure that Bhagwant will fulfil every expectation of the people of Punjab," tweeted AAP's national convenor Arvind Kejriwal. The party tweeted that Kejriwal and Mann will join a mega roadshow in Amritsar on March 13, to celebrate the victory and thank the public.

A meeting of the party's 92 MLAs was held on Friday evening. Party leaders led by Mann will meet Punjab Governor Banwari Lal Purohit on Saturday, to stake claim to form the government. Talking in Sangrur before leaving for the national capital, Mann said, "I will meet the Governor on Saturday."

Other issues discussed included the cabinet. All 17 ministers may not be inducted now and only five or six may be named. The probable candidates are Aman Arora, Harpal Cheema, Kultar Singh Sandhwan, Harjot Bains, Nina Mittal, Gurmeet Singh Meet Hayer, Saravjit Kaur Manuke and Baljinder Kaur.



Emergence of women as prominent force in Uttarakhand politics

VINEET UPADHYAY @Dehradun

WOMEN have emerged as a prominent force in Uttarakhand politics. There are eight women MLAs, the highest-ever in the state. Also, women outnumbered men in voting in 53 of the 70 constituencies.

"This election saw the highest number of women securing their place in the assembly. This is unprecedented and a silver lining," said Geeta Gairola, a social worker, writer and activist based in Dehradun.

Former Uttarakhand CM Trivendra Singh Rawat (R) with state BJP president Madan Kaushik in Dehradun on Friday

The women MLAs who won include six from BJP, while two are from the Congress. In 2002, there were four woman MLAs. It was the same in 2007. In 2012, the number rose to five. In 2017, it remained the same.

Kirankant Sharma, a political observer based in Haridwar, said, "According to data from the state government, 3,444 women's groups have been provided low interest loans to pursue entrepreneurial projects, 4.80 lakh Ujjawala gas connections have been provided. These have made life of women of the state better than the past, which resulted in votes for BJP."

Uttarakhand elections have shown a trend of increasing gap between women and men voters, with women leading. Voting percentage of women stood at 67.20% in 2022, while men were trailing at 62.60%. In hill areas of the state, this gap between women and men voters was over 10%. The state has 70 constituencies, of which 34 are in the hill areas and 36 in the plain areas of the state.

New govt in Manipur by March 19: Outgoing CM

PTI @Imphal

THE new government in Manipur will be formed before March 19 when the current state Assembly's term ends and a decision on who will lead is expected to be decided in the next couple of days, outgoing Chief Minister N Biren Singh said on Friday.

National People's Party, a partner in the existing government which won seven seats in the just concluded state poll, will not be a part of the new dispensation, Singh said.

Decision on the new government and overall alliance would be taken by central observers of BJP who will come to Manipur. Replying to queries on probable alliances, he said BJP won the majority and does not need support from other parties. "But we have the coalition dharma and won't say no to those who want to support us from outside."

Singh had earlier in the day resigned from the post and has been asked to continue as caretaker chief minister till a new government is formed.

Dissident Congress leaders expected to push for date to hold internal elections

HE also criticised the lack of democracy in decision making and the rule of sycophants, and suggested ways for the party to reconnect with the people.

After the G23 leaders repeatedly raised the issue of leadership vacuum and the absence of a full-time leader, the party has started the process for organisational elections to elect a new president by September. There has, however, been no talk of organisational elections. The group is expected to press for setting a timeline for internal elections.

The Congress' debacle in the election will hugely impact its numbers in the Rajya Sabha in the coming months. The arithmetic is set to change this year with 48 vacancies arising in the upper house and the Congress numbers are expected to fall to an all-time low to 26. The BSP would be left with a single member and the Shiromani Akali Dal would have no representative in the Upper House.

Following a massive win in Punjab, AAP will emerge as the fourth largest party in Rajya sabha with 10 members – 3 from Delhi and 7 from Punjab. It will be the largest group after BJP, Congress, and Trinamool Congress. The Congress is set to lose three Rajya Sabha seats from Punjab, two from Assam, one each from Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand, and Uttar Pradesh.

Traditional power players in Punjab hit a new low

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chandigarh

SHIROMANI Akali Dal (SAD) suffered its worst defeat in Punjab, ever since it was formed 102 years back. The party won only three seats out of 117. The performance of Congress was no better either, as it came down to 18 from 77 to be voted out of power. It was the grand old party's worst performance in the state.

The number of seats won by these two parties that ruled Punjab until before this elections was the lowest ever. In 2002, SAD won 41 but could not form the government as Congress won 62 and came to power. But in 2007, SAD won 49 seats and formed the government with BJP, which had 19. Congress won 44.

In 2012, the SAD-BJP alliance retained power, winning 56 and 12 seats, respectively. Congress remained the main opposition with 46. But in 2017 under Amarinder Singh, Congress wrested power back with victory in 77 seats. SAD had to be content with 15 and BJP three. AAP marked its entry into Punjab with 20 seats. This time, SAD lost badly in all three regions — Majha, Doaba and Malwa — winning one seat each from the three.

People voting for development: Modi on poll success

PM asserts his party bucked the trend and returned to power in four states because of development works done by BJP governments

Prime Minister Narendra Modi waves at BJP supporters during a roadshow in Ahmedabad on Friday | PTI

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi sounded the poll bugle in Gujarat — where polls are due later this year — by holding a mega road show and pitching for 'politics of development', to which he attributed the party's latest electoral triumphs.

Addressing over one lakh panchayat representatives in Ahmedabad on Friday, Modi said the BJP managed to buck the trend of the party in power being rejected by voters because of its development works. "Democracy has its own power. Just yesterday, thanks to that power of democracy, we were able to form government in four states where the party in power had never formed government for a second consecutive term in the past. Now, people have realised that in a democracy, development should be the priority of elected representatives," the PM said at the Panchayat Mahasammelan.

Riding high on the poll success, the PM held a massive roadshow from the airport to the BJP office, with lakhs of workers and people cheering and greeting him along the 10-km route.

Later, the PM holds a meeting with state BJP leaders at the party office. Party sources said he shared the 'Vijay mantra' for the Gujarat elections and explained the formula of how the BJP won the four states of UP, Goa, Uttarakhand and Manipur.

At the panchayat conference, Modi invoked Mahatma Gandhi and stressed that villages need to be self-reliant and strong, for which panchayat representatives have to set goals for overall development. "Gujarat is the land of Bapu (Mahatma Gandhi) and Sardar Patel. Bapu always talked about rural development, self-reliant and strong villages. Today, as we are marking 'Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav', we must fulfill Bapu's dream of rural development," the PM said.

"More than 1.5 lakh elected public representatives sit together and discuss the bright future of Gujarat. There can be no greater opportunity than this, no greater power of democracy than this," he said.

Modi asserted that the way to the Assembly passes through the gram panchayat, hence the responsibility of each sarpanch towards his/her village's development increases.

AAP new hurdle in Gujarat; Himachal Cong hit by turf war

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

THE electoral drubbing has left Congress leaders worried in poll-bound Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh with a looming fear that the results will have a bearing especially in the western state where the AAP is planning big.

Though the Congress posed a formidable challenge to the BJP in 2017 by limiting the ruling party to below 100 seats in 182-member House, it is in complete disarray this time. The recent change of guard in Gujarat unit seems to have further increased trouble. The two states will go to polls by the end of this year.

Several state leaders said that the results in the five states would impact the party's electoral fortune in Gujarat as several leaders, including sitting MLAs who were upset with organisational change, might join the AAP or the BJP. The AAP is preparing to contest the polls with the launch of a Tiranga Yatra from April.

"If the top leadership cannot ensure even one win in Gandhi bastions of Raebareli and Amethi, what do we expect from them? Apna ghar to bacha nahi paye! (They failed to save their own house)," said a senior Gujarat leader.

A former Gujarat MLA said the party should allow the state unit to manage the election rather than parachuting central leaders. "In 2017, Krishna Allavaru was in charge of Gujarat elections and we lost due to poor management. He was sent to Punjab and look at the results."

In Himachal Pradesh last year, the Congress scored a major upset by winning all three assembly seats of Arki, Jubbal-Kotkhai and Fatehpur in bypoll. The party had touted it as the sentiment of the people, but the faction-riddled state unit could impact the party's performance.

Azad faction wants him back, J&K chief stands in the way

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

QUESTIONS remain whether the Congress in Jammu and Kashmir will learn from Thursday's poll debacles. Even as the election is likely to be held in the next five-six months, the unit is split between former chief minister Ghulam Nabi Azad and PCC chief Ghulam Ahmed Mir.

The latter is helming the party affairs for seven years despite the Congress not faring well in elections held under his leadership. He himself lost the parliamentary elections from south Kashmir, Assembly polls in 2014 and even his son lost in the DDC polls.

In November, the supporters of Azad resigned from the party posts to press the leadership for appointing their leader as the party chief.

Senior leader Ghulam Nabi Monga, who resigned from the post of senior vice -president, said the leadership without wasting any time should appoint Azad as the PCC chief. "He is the best leader, who can revive Congress in J&K. Mir has been a total failure and we have been telling the party leadership time and again that he should be changed. He is not acceptable to a large section of workers," Monga said, adding that Azad was acceptable to all leaders.

Another party leader said Azad is a tall leader and his appointment will act as a morale booster for the party and its workers. If Azad is not given the top responsibility, he said, then the infighting will continue and the party will not be able to compete with BJP.

A PDP leader too said Congress is the best bet against BJP in Jammu region where there are 43 seats. "But the party is battling infighting and factionalism. In such a scenario, it cannot pose any challenge to BJP."

Sticking points discussed in 15th round of LAC talks

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

INDIA and China met on Friday for 15th round of Corps Commander-level talks to discuss the sticking points that remain between the two sides in eastern Ladakh.

The Indian side was led by Lt Gen Anindya Sengupta who took over as the General Officer Commanding of Leh-based Fire and Fury Corps in January. Major Gen Yang Lin, South Xinjiang Military District Commander, headed the Chinese contingent for the Senior Highest Military Commander Level talks.

The two sides met at the Indian side of Chushul Moldo Meeting Point to begin talks at 10 am, sources said. The agenda remains disengagement at standoffs in Hot Springs, Depsang and Demchok.

"Both sides will now focus on achieving resolution on the balanced friction areas. Recent statements by both sides to find a mutually acceptable solution have been encouraging and positive," said a source in the defence establishment.

There has been stalemate since the 13 round of the Corps Commander level talks held on October 10. Things did not change even after the next round of talks on January 12.

The talks, so far, have resulted in the resolution of the North and South Bank of Pangong Tso, Galwan and Gogra Hot Spring areas. The Depsang standoff has resulted in obstruction of Indian troop movement to the traditional Patrolling Points (PP) 10, 11, 11A, 12 and 13.

CBSE Board Term-II exams from April 26

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) on Friday released the dates for Class 10 and 12 term-2 board examination 2022.

The board, which is conducting a two-term exam, will hold the second term exam from April 26 to June 15.

The first day of CBSE Class 12 exam will begin with entrepreneurship and beauty and wellness papers and end with the psychology paper on June 15. The exam will start at 10.30 am and it will not be conducted in two shifts.

Last year, the CBSE had announced that the board examinations would be conducted in two terms. While Term-1 exams were held in November, the Term-2 exams were slated from April 26 for both the classes.

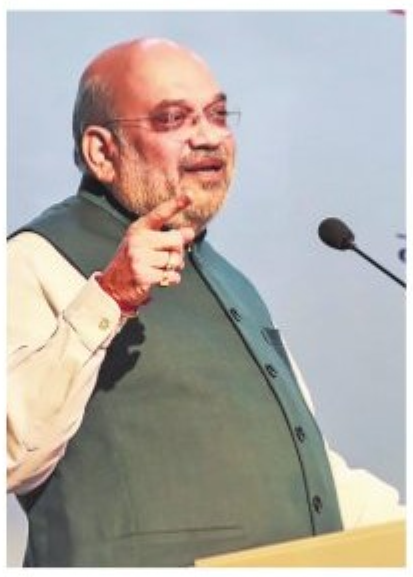
The Term-2 exams for Class 10 will end on May 24, while for Class 12 students, the papers will end on June 15.

"Wherever the gap is a little lesser, such examinations have been kept at a later date so that students can get sufficient time for the preparation of these examinations," said Sanyam Bhardwaj, Controller of Examination, CBSE.

As the schools were closed due to pandemic, the CBSE has given more gap between the two examinations this time in almost all the subjects for both the classes.

The Board also said other competitive examinations, including JEE-Main, were taken care of while preparing the date sheet. "These date sheets have been prepared by avoiding nearly 35,000 subject combinations to ensure that no two subject examinations of a student fall on the same date," it said.

'Crime needs to drop by 20% in five yrs'



Home Minister Amit Shah also called for greater use of NCRB data | PTI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Friday set a target of reducing the crime rate in the country by 20 per cent in the next five years and asked states and Union Territories to use the National Crime Records Bureau data for preparing their annual crime control strategy.

Stating that FIR is a public document, he said central agencies such as CBI, NIA and NCB should be linked to the Crime and Criminal Tracking Network and Systems (CCTNS) which is the centralised online database of FIRs, charge sheets and investigation reports.

The CCTNS is a platform that links 16,390 police stations across the country. All state police are mandated to file FIRs in the CCTNS module.

"Nearly 99% of the police stations in the country are connected to CCTNS. But central agencies are not on this platform. FIR is a public document. What is the secrecy around it? Agencies should not resist... Charge sheet is also a public document. What kind of information has to be shared can be decided professionally by the agencies," Shah said.

He also asked Union Home Secretary Ajay Kumar Bhalla to convene a meeting of chiefs of all the central agencies to bring them to the CCTNS fold.

At the 37th foundation day celebration of the NCRB, Shah said the NCRB data should help reduce the crime rate in India by 20 per cent in next five years if it is made available to the right people at the right time, is kept in proper format and if a system is adopted for its proper analysis and management.

"The NCRB data should be used by all states for preparing annual strategy for crime control. It should be used in a multi-dimensional and multi-purpose way in crime control."

Shah recalled his experience as home minister of Gujarat and said NCRB data was helpful in controlling crimes along the border districts.

Covid spiked women's mental woes

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

COVID took a toll on the mental health of women, with 35 to 40 per cent of them suffering from anxiety, depression and other problems, but they are still hesitant or fear coming forward due to stigma.

"Compared to men, anxiety and depression went up among women. It is believed that women can withstand stress and are generally thought to be better than men, but it was not so. Women's mental health during Covid took a beating," Indian Psychiatric Society president Dr N N Raju said. "In general, the entire household work is done by women, whether we like it or not. They were handling various fronts — from handling workload, children's online classes and also looking after the needs of the husband, who was working from home during the pandemic."

Raju said studies show that mental health issues went up among the people during Covid. "It went up by 15-20 per cent. But in women, it increased by 35-40 per cent compared to men."

What is worrying, he said, is that women don't come forward to flag mental health problems. "They don't want to discuss. They fear stigma and discrimination not only from society but also from families. I see 20-30 cases a day. But I have not come across women discussing it with me."

Dr Priyanka Trivedi, clinical psychologist, Delhi's Aakash Healthcare Super Speciality Hospital, said studies show women suffered from anxiety, depression and trauma during the pandemic. "It is critical for women to come forward otherwise, their condition will exacerbate further."

Dr Alka A Subramanyam, associate professor, Department of Psychiatry, TNMC and BYL Nair Charitable Hospital, Mumbai, said women who had mental illnesses suffered more because of lack of access to treatment during Covid. "In India, it is a known phenomenon that women wait till the end to talk about health. Urban women are still aware compared to those in rural areas."

Raju hoped the new national tele-mental health programme will help in removing the stigma and, in turn, help women.

Kashmir sarpanch killed, toll swells to 3 in 10 days

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Srinagar

A sarpanch in south Kashmir's Kulgam district was shot dead by militants on Friday evening in the third such killing of elected panchayat members in the last 10 days.

Police sources said militants fired at Shabir Ahmad Mir from point blank range at his native village, Adoora. He sustained multiple bullet wounds and was rushed to the nearby district hospital but succumbed before reaching there.

On March 9, militants had gunned down PDP sarpanch Sameer Ahmad Bhat at his residence on the outskirts of Srinagar. Earlier on March 2, a panch, Mohammad Yaqoob Dar, was shot dead at Kulpora in Kulgam district.

Police, CRPF and army men rushed to the area and launched a cordon and search operation to track down the militants.

It was being initially said Shabir was a BJP sarpanch, but BJP spokesperson Manzoor Bhat denied that he was affiliated with the party.

Bhat condemned the killing and asked police to bolster security of the elected panchayat members and to identity and arrest the militants involved in the attack. Other political parties, including National Conference, People's Democratic Party, Peoples Conference's and Apni Party also condemned the deadly attack.

'Deadline for global air ops not easy'

NEW DELHI: Restarting international operations by March 27 is proving to be an uphill task for domestic carriers because they would have to overhaul and reschedule their operations. Considering the time they have, it is going to be an organisational and logistical challenge. "Our load factors were just about picking up in the domestic sector and restarting international operations would mean restructuring all ongoing operations. ... We are trying to streamline our schedules in a way that we can optimally utilise the aircraft. Also, pilots and crew have to be redeployed for the international sector, so there is a lot of work," said an official of a leading domestic carrier.

Airlines are not sure of the viability of all international sectors as many passengers may not be wanting to fly due to the war in Ukraine and the aftermath of Covid. Tatas, who have four carriers under their banner would offer the largest network of international destinations. Whether they rationalise the routes and fly as a single entity, or fly as competitors on the same route one would have to see. Yeshi Seli

Civilian targets hit as Ukraine offensive widens

Russian forces strike airfields in the west and an industrial city in the east; huge armoured column stalled for over a week outside Kyiv was on the move again

META, INSTA UNDER RUSSIAN LENS

Russia said it was opening a criminal case against Meta, the US parent company of Facebook, and Instagram, for "calling for the murder" of Russians after the firm eased its policy on violent speech. The UN also voiced alarm at the decision — which would allow statements like "death to Russian invaders" but not credible threats against civilians — saying it could spark hate speech against Russians.

KYIV

RUSSIA widened its offensive in Ukraine on Friday, striking airfields in the west and an industrial city in the east for the first time, while the huge armored column stalled for over a week outside Kyiv was on the move again, spreading out into forests and towns.

The strikes also hit fresh civilian targets in central and eastern Ukraine on Friday, including a city previously considered a safe haven.

Three missiles hit civilian buildings in the central city of Dnipro early on Friday, destroying a shoe factory and killing a security guard. The city had been considered a safe haven, becoming a hub for the coordination of humanitarian aid and those fleeing more severe fighting in the country's east.

With the invasion now in its 16th day, Russia appeared to be trying to regroup and regain momentum, with expanded bombardment and tightening of its stranglehold on cities already under attack, particularly the strategic port of Mariupol, where tens of thousands struggled to find food amid an intense 10-day-old siege.

Western and Ukrainian officials have said Russian forces have struggled in the face of stiffer resistance and heavier losses than anticipated, along with supply and morale problems. So far, they have made the biggest advances on cities in the south and east while stalling in the north and around Kyiv.

Friday's strikes targeted the west, away from the main battle zones. Russian Defense Ministry spokesman Igor Konashenkov said Russia used high-precision long-range weapons to put military airfields in Lutsk and Ivano-Frankivsk "out of action."

The Lutsk strikes killed four Ukrainian servicemen and wounded six, Lutsk Mayor Ihor Polishchuk said. In Ivano-Frankivsk, residents were ordered into shelters in an air raid alert.

In another potentially ominous development, new satellite photos appeared to show the massive Russian convoy outside the Ukrainian capital had fanned out.

Howitzers were towed into position to open fire, and armored units were seen in towns near the Antonov Airport north of the city, according to Maxar Technologies, the company that produced the images.

The 64km line of tanks and other vehicles had massed outside Kyiv early last week. But its advance had appeared to stall amid reports of food and fuel shortages and attacks by Ukrainian troops with anti-tank missiles.

The purpose of the latest move was unclear, though Russia is widely expected eventually to try to encircle the capital. Britain's Ministry of Defense said that after making "limited progress," Russian forces were trying to "re-set and re-posture" their troops. Agencies

AMAZON-FUTURE

Amazon may file contempt petition against Future

Reliance had taken over stores of Future after the latter failed to pay the lease rents

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

EVEN as many are calling it a silent coup by Reliance Industries on Amazon in the way it took over Future Retail Stores, Amazon is not going to let go down silently without putting up a fight.

Sources told TNIE that the online retail giant is planning to launch a fresh offensive against Future Retail, if the latter does not accept the 'exit' plan offered by it.

Sources say that Amazon might file contempt petition against Future Retail as it committed an 'illegal Act' of changing the lease agreement of stores in violation of emergency arbitrator's award, and did not disclose the change in lease agreement to lenders, shareholders as well as courts.

Reliance Retail had taken over stores of Future group after the latter failed to pay the lease rents. According to sources close to the development, Amazon is looking at possible legal action against Future Retail for changing the lease agreement when the emergency arbitral award had specifically asked for status quo.

The sources also said that it may also try to pin the Kishore Biyani-owned company down for not informing the Supreme Court and High Court about the change in the lease agreement when the courts are hearing cases against those assets.

The e-commerce giant is also likely to harp on the fact that Future Retail did not even inform the shareholders about the change in the lease agreement. "Shareholders should be informed of any steps taken by the company that may impact its revenues," said sources.

It might also argue in the court that Future Group colluded with Reliance, which is indirectly a party to the ongoing dispute between Amazon and Future.

According to sources, Amazon has told the financially distressed Future Retail that it is ready to help it in getting funds required to make repayments to its creditors.

The US-headquartered retail giant has likely assured Future Group that if not itself, it might help raise funds through third party sources to help Future Group tide over the debt crisis.

Amazon has been in a legal tussle with Future group after it tried to sell its retail business to Reliance Retail in a 24,000-crore deal.

RBI bars Paytm Bank from taking new customers

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

THE Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has barred Paytm Payments Bank from onboarding new customers with immediate effect due to supervisory concerns. The top bank has directed the bank to appoint an IT audit firm to conduct a comprehensive audit of its IT system.

"Reserve Bank of India has today (March 11), in exercise of its powers, inter alia, under section 35A of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949, directed Paytm Payments Bank Ltd to stop, with immediate effect, onboarding of new customers," said RBI in a circular.

It added that the onboarding of new customers by Paytm Payments Bank will be subject to specific permission to be granted by RBI after reviewing report of the IT auditors. This action is based on certain material supervisory concerns observed in the bank, it said.

While the RBI did not mention why it is barring the firm to onboard new customers, it is not the first time when the regulator has taken a similar step. In August 2018, it was reported that PayTm Payments Bank had stopped enrolling new customers following an audit by RBI, which revealed that the firm was not following adequate know-your-customer (KYC) norms when it comes to acquiring new customers.

Later it was revealed that RBI also had concerns over the close relations between Paytm Payments Bank and its parent One97 Communications as according to rules, Payments banks are required to maintain an arm's length distance from promoter group entities. Paytm parent firm One97 Communications holds 49% stake in Paytm Payments Bank while 51% is held by PayTm founder Vijay Shekhar Sharma.

It was reported that the firm had failed to meet the ₹100-crore net worth criteria and was also exceeding the Rs 1-lakh deposit limit allowed per account for payments banks at the time. When contacted, PayTm did not respond at the time this story was first published.

After Byju's, upGrad, Edtech platform Unacademy aims IPO in two years

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

ONLINE learning has become the new normal post the pandemic, and many edtech platforms have announced their plans to go public in the recent months.

After Byju's, upGrad and Vedantu, edtech platform Unacademy is also eyeing IPO (Initial Public Offering) in the next two years.

Launching an experience centre - Unacademy Store - on Friday in Delhi, Gaurav Munjal, Co-Founder and CEO, Unacademy Group said that apart from the store in Delhi, the start-up is also aiming to launch three more stores in three cities - Jaipur, Lucknow and Kota.

"We are on track to achieve profitability in our core business- test preparation platform- in the next one year," he said.

The Unacademy Store is launched with an aim to promote its online business. The edtech platform is also exploring the hybrid-retail model with this launch.

"Through these stores, we will be marketing our offerings to both parents and students. We want to develop a community of learners. We need a place where we can showcase our products to every corner of the country," Munjal said.

These stores will serve as an offline touchpoint for learners who want to browse through the various platform offerings.

The store is conceptualised to help learners stay updated about their chosen career pathways and connect with like-minded people, Unacademy said.

"The journey which started with a Youtube channel to democratise high-quality knowledge for everyone is taking a new shape with our Unacademy Stores. We hope these experiential stores with expert and educator-connects, libraries, classrooms, and much more will help learners gain significant insights into their chosen career paths," said Munjal.

According to MarketResearch.com, the e-learning market in India was valued at ₹9,141 crore in 2020. It is expected to reach a value of ₹31,213 crore by 2026, expanding at a CAGR of 17.60% during the 2021 – 2026 period.

The platform is witnessing 60% Y-o-Y growth, and it wants to be a multi-product company.

It has over 50 million active learners. Unacademy is foraying into the offline space at a time when Byju's is focused on its offline business with the launch of Tuition Centres.

Byju's recently said that it plans to increase its tuition centres to 500 in 200 cities by the end of this year.

In August last year, Unacademy raised $440 million in a round led by Tiger Global, Temasek and General Atlantic, and it was valued at $3.44 billion.

Both Oyo and Zomato founders have invested in Unacademy.

SRI LANKA

CENTRAL BANK SAYS IT CAN MANAGE CHALLENGES OF DEVALUATION

Sri Lanka devalued its currency to improve macroeconomic stability as the country struggles with its worst financial crisis in years, central bank chief Ajith Nivard Cabraal said on Friday. The central bank this week introduced a flexible exchange rate framework, which saw the rupee depreciate by around 30% to 260 rupees against the dollar on Thursday. "The decision to impose a flexible exchange rate has caused challenges but we are confident these can be managed," Cabraal said in a video uploaded on Facebook. "However, it was a step taken to maintain macroeconomic stability and ensure financial system consistency," he added. Cabraal also said the central bank would closely monitor the impact of the devaluation across the economy and take appropriate policy decisions. Prices of items such as bread, flour and airline tickets increased by 30% on Friday as retailers adjusted costs to reflect the new rupee rate. Inflation had already hit 16.1% in February.

ASIAN STOCKS

MOST ASIAN STOCKS WEAKEN AS US INFLATION FUELS RATE HIKE FEARS

Several emerging Asian equities slid on Friday after red-hot US inflation data cemented expectations of more aggressive rate hikes globally, while talks between Russia and Ukraine failed to make much headway in de-escalating tensions. Share markets in Malaysia plunged more than 1%, while those in the Philippines and South Korea also lost further ground. Thai stocks, however, avoided a pummelling, with analysts contending that its central bank may not hike rates any time soon despite a recent spike in inflation, due to risks to its tourism sector and growth. Data on Thursday showed US inflation witnessed its largest increase in 40 years in February, spurring bets that the Fed would look to aggressively hike interest rates and regional central banks may follow suit to tackle price pressures. Geopolitics also did little to brighten the mood, as the lack of a fruitful outcome in diplomatic talks between Ukraine and Russia to resolve their conflict, which Russia calls a "special operation," hurt sentiment. Most regional currencies were sold off, with the Korean won and Thai baht leading falls, even as oil prices eased for a second straight session.

JAPAN

BUSINESS MOOD SINKS, ECLIPSES HOUSEHOLD SPENDING BOOST AS UKRAINE RISKS GROW

Japan's household spending rose in January but the business mood sank in the first quarter as rising raw material costs squeezed corporate margins, leaving the country's resource-poor economy facing a hard grind ahead. The results add pressure on policymakers to ramp up fiscal stimulus to support Japan's economy, which is likely to have stalled in the current quarter and faces fresh risks from soaring fuel prices blamed on the Ukraine crisis. Household spending rose 6.9% in January from a year earlier, government data showed on Friday, more than a median market forecast for a 3.6% gain. It followed a 0.2% drop in December. The increase was largely due to the base effect of a slump in January last year, when Covid-19 state of emergency curbs were imposed. Looser curbs to deal with a spike in new Omicron coronavirus variant cases remain in place in some areas of Japan, weighing on household spending. A separate government survey showed Japan's business sentiment sank in the first quarter with sectors vulnerable to rising raw material costs, such as food and transportation, taking a hit.

PV dispatches rise but chip shortage still a major concern

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

PASSENGER vehicle (PV) wholesales in India fell 6% to 2,62,984 units in February 2022 from 2,81,380 units sold in the same month last year, said Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers (SIAM) on Friday.

Sequentially, however, PV sales witnessed improvement as the same stood at 2,54,287 units in January 2022.

The decline is attributed to supply-side challenges such as semiconductor shortage, higher logistics cost and rise in commodity prices.

Rajesh Menon, Director General, SIAM said, "Continuing supply-side challenges like Semiconductor shortages, increase in cost due to new regulations, higher commodity prices, higher logistics cost etc. have impacted overall sales in the auto industry. Industry is closely watching the possible impact of the ongoing conflict in Ukraine, as Global Supply Chains could come under stress," he added.

According to auto industry executives, if the on-going Russia- Ukraine conflict worsens in the coming days, it may have a severe impact on the auto industry's supply chain. Add to it, commodity prices have spiked due to Russia's major presence in commodities such as Aluminum, Palladium, Platinum and Oil.

Byju Raveendran invests $400 million in BYJU's

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

EDTECH company BYJU's on Friday raised $800 million from Sumeru Ventures, Vitruvian Partners and BlackRock. As part of this fund raise, Byju Raveendran, Founder and CEO of BYJU'S has made a personal investment of $400 million.

Byju Raveendran said, "We continue to witness accelerated growth in India and international markets through both organic and inorganic routes. Our sustained focus is on achieving our long-term goals around creating life-long value for our learners."

"We will continue to invest in multiple learning models to provide students with quality education across the world," he added. With over 150 million learners and an annual renewal rate of 86%, the start-up has been introducing multiple learning programmes in various formats across age groups and geographies.

Mike Risman, Managing Partner of Vitruvian said, "BYJU'S strong growth and expansion in national and international markets has been very promising." BYJU'S - The Learning App was launched for classes 4-12 in 2015. Today, the app has over 115 million registered students and 7.5 million annual paid subscriptions, the edtech platform said.

The company also launched BYJU'S Future School recently, which is available in the USA, UK, Australia, Brazil, Indonesia and Mexico.

LIC reveals Q3 results, profit rises to ₹235 crore on economic rebound

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

AHEAD of its initial public offering (IPO), state-owned Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) has released its December ended quarterly (Q3FY22) result. LIC reported a massive surge in its net profit from ₹0.94 crore in Q3FY2021 to ₹234.91 crore in Q3FY2022 on the back of change in surplus distribution model, wherein shareholders will now get a larger share of the surplus than earlier.

The changes were made to bring LIC's surplus distribution model at par with private life insurers. Earlier, LIC had a single 'Life Fund' which now has been segregated into two- participating policyholders' fund and non-participating policyholders' fund.

The surplus generated under the participating policyholders' fund will be divided between policyholders and shareholders in a ratio of 90:10, wherein 90% will go to the policyholders and the remaining 10% to the shareholders. For non-participating policyholders' fund, 100% of the surplus will go to the shareholders.

LIC chairman M R Kumar had previously said that this change will help the insurance behemoth increase its profitability, a metric that will be closely tracked once it gets listed.

Life Insurance Corporation premium

LIC's 1st yr premium rose to ₹8,748.55 cr in Q3FY22 from ₹7,957.37 cr in the same quarter last yr. Its renewal premium came at ₹56,822.49 cr, up from ₹54,986.72 cr in the year-ago quarter

LIC's first year premium rose to ₹8,748.55 crore in Q3FY22 from ₹7,957.37 crore in the same quarter last year while its renewal premium came in at ₹56,822.49 crore, up from ₹54,986.72 crore in the year-ago quarter.

LIC's total premium rose marginally by 0.78% in Q3FY2022 to ₹97,761.20 compared with ₹97,008.05 crore.

For the 9 months ended FY22 (April – December), net profit of the insurer stood at ₹1,642.78 crore.

After receiving clearance from the market regulator Sebi, LIC's stakeholder, the government of India, is planning to file the final papers for the IPO soon.

This will provide with details about the price band, discount for policyholders and retail buyers, and the actual number of shares that would be put on the block.

Industrial production grows at 1.3% in January

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA'S Industrial Production (IIP) grew at 1.3% in the month of January, after hitting 10-month low in December, according to the data released by the Commerce ministry on Friday.

In December, the Industrial production showed just a 0.4% year-on-year growth compared to 1.4% growth registered in November 2021. The index is up around 13.7% on a cumulative basis in April-January 2021 compared to April-January 2020. The mining sector witnessed the highest growth at 2.8% during the January month as compared to a rise of 2.6% in December. Similarly, the manufacturing sector output grew 1.1% as against a degrowth of 0.9% December 2021. However, the electricity generation growth lagged in January 2022, rising 0.9% versus 2.8% in December 2021.

However, the growth in Industrial Production in January hasn't amused the analyst much as they find it relatively slower. Dr. Sunil Kumar Sinha, Principal Economist of India Ratings and Research noted that growth momentum was expected due to the spread of omicron variant of Covid-19 pandemic, but inability of the industrial sector to recover on a sustained basis point towards deeper problem like weakness in demand and/or supply side issues.

Also, four consecutive months of negative growth in consumer durables and capital goods is indicating that neither consumption demand nor the investment demand is showing any traction. "The growth recovery in industrial output continues to be an area of worry as once again industrial output growth as captured by the Index of Industrial Production (IIP) came in at 1.3% in January 2022," said Sinha.

"However, despite the dismal growth numbers the positive side of January 2022 industrial output is that in level terms it has remained higher than the pre-Covid levels."

Invest in India-first products, says Koo CEO

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

APRAMEYA Radhakrishna, CEO and Co-founder of microblogging platform Koo, encourages more investors from India to invest in India-first products. Koo recently raised $10 million from multiple investors.

In an interaction with TNIE, Radhakrishna said, "We are not looking for money at present, but if somebody is deeply passionate about wanting to be a part of the Koo story, especially Indian investors, I will accept the Indian money at any time. The preference is to raise Indian money, but if it is unavailable for whatever reason, then we will raise investments from somewhere else."

The recent round of fund raising saw participation from Indian investors. Koo also has other global investors such as Tiger Global and Accel.

Launched in March 2020, the multilingual platform enables Indians to express themselves online in their mother tongue.

In India, not more than 10% of people converse in English. For thoughts and opinions, there is a platform like Twitter that connects the English-speaking world. "Forming communities by language helps provide comfort to those who speak only that language to express themselves among each other," Radhakrishna said. Koo provides tools for English speaking India to be able to connect with local language audiences and what one says in English can be easily translated and directed to particular language communities.

He said giving the Indian ecosystem a window of opportunity to build their own ecosystem is important. "Having our own phones, Play Store and our own social networks are very critical in the age we live."

Nadal calls for tougher punishments for abuse of officials

Rafael Nadal has called for tougher punishments for abuse of officials after German world no.3 Alexander Zverev avoided a ban for smashing his racquet against the umpire's chair at the Mexican Open. Speaking on Thursday ahead of the BNP Paribas Open in Indian Wells, the 21-time Grand Slam champion said "we need to be a positive example".

PINK PONG CHALLENGE

Dry pitch adds to mystery as India take on Sri Lanka in the day-night Test starting today

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

AFTER a cruising victory over Sri Lanka in the first Test at Mohali, the Indian players could have easily taken some time off from cricket before their flight to Bengaluru on Wednesday. But a day before their departure from Chandigarh, they hit the ground running for a practice session with pink ball to gear up for the second Test, a day-night affair at the M Chinnaswamy Stadium, starting Saturday.

Such an approach holds logic. They have played three day-night Tests, but are yet to fully decode the pink ball. That all three of them have been played in different conditions – Kolkata, Adelaide and Ahmedabad – has only made it difficult. And going by the indications, Bengaluru is going to be unique too as the pitch looks dry and sans dew in the evenings, could be challenging for the batting team under the lights.

To say India, who made their pink ball debut in 2019, are still learning about the day-night Test nuances will not be an understatement. Overall, they have just played eight days of international pink ball cricket with all their matches ending inside three days. With most of the current squad players having played with the pink ball, they need to bring in that minimal experience to the Garden City.

Ravindra Jadeja (L) and Rohit Sharma train ahead of the second cricket Test between India and Sri Lanka in Bengaluru | ASHISHKRISHNA HP

"As children growing up, we have not played with the pink ball. You are not used to it," said India vice-captain Jasprit Bumrah. "It is a mental adjustment as you do not play a lot of pink ball cricket. Whatever little games we have played, we are trying to take feedback from those games and try to replicate that – certain changes when playing Test under lights, what does it do, when you field what are the adjustments that you have to make."

When it comes to team selection for such matches , it becomes tricky. The ball tends to do a lot more under the lights and the twilight period is always considered a bit challenging. With the inclusion of Axar Patel, they have added more teeth to the attack. With the pitch drawing a dry look by Friday evening, it would come as no surprise if India field three spinners. In the two day-night Tests played in the country, the conditions have been contrasting. In Kolkata, against Bangladesh, Indian pacers took 19 wickets and against England in Ahmedabad, the hosts' spinners combined for 19 wickets.

Like it has been the case with day-night Tests, it is going to be challenging for the batters. In Ahmedabad, where the Test ended in two days, both teams revealed how the pink ball came quickly off the pitch, giving them less time to react. With the venue hosting its maiden pink ball Test, one does not really know how the surface is going to play, adding a layer of intrigue to the Test.

"Pink ball looks different, sometimes it comes quickly too. The timings are also different. Like in a regular Test match, in the morning session, the ball does more, but here, it might be the opposite, it might swing more at night."

Mishra set to be BAI's Secy, Gopi files for VP

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

IN a late twist, chief national coach Pullela Gopichand filed his nomination for the post of vice-president while Sanjay Mishra is set to be next general secretary of Badminton Association of India. On the last day of nomination, Gopichand and Mishra filed their candidatures. The list will be made final next week.

Though all of the other nominations except for the president's post were filed on Thursday, no name was filed for the post of general secretary. It was only on Friday that the names were finalised — Gopichand as vice-president and Mishra, who works closely with Gopichand as the junior national coach and is currently an executive council member, as general secretary.

There are quite a few theories floating around but the serious one seemed to be the constitution bye-laws that don't allow a person who is not part of the previous executive council to contest for the post of general secretary. The new constitution amended in February this year says, "The honourary general secretary shall be elected by the council amongst its members and provided that only outgoing office-bearers (president, secretary and treasurer) or the members of the outgoing Executive Committee shall be eligible to contest for the post of general secretary." The Delhi High Court is hearing a matter on the restrictive clause of the Indian Olympic Association and how it violates sports code.

Gopichand is also the chief national coach and whether he would continue is not known as of now. Perhaps, as a VP he could still continue.

The BAI will have some kind of change. Ajay Singhania, the current general secretary, has been nominated for the post of vice-president. BAI president Himanta Biswa Sarma was the only office bearer to have filed his nomination on the first day — March 9. Others who filed on Thursday are Arun Lakhani for the post of treasurer in place of former Union minister Anbumani Ramadoss, who has filed for VP post. Lakhani is right now a VP.

Fouaad to keep options open ahead of Asian Games

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@ Chennai

MULTIPLE Asian Games medallist, Fouaad Mirza, is keeping an open mind with respect to competing at this year's event at Hangzhou, China. The Equestrian Federation of India (EFI) has made an exemption apropos qualification criteria for the Asiad and that's opened the door for Fouaad.

Late last year, the 30-year-old had expressed serious doubts after the federation told him they will only consider him if he gives a trial in a CCI2* event for the Asian Games. That made no sense because Fouaad competes in CCI 4* events but the federation wasn't willing to accept his 4* scores. In late January, the EFI conveyed to him that they will be okay with Fouaad giving a trial in a CCI3* (long) event.

"In late January, they told me they will be okay with me giving a trial in a CCI 3* (long). I have time till May 15 to do it," he told this daily on Friday from Germany. "I need not travel to India, I'm free to do the trial anywhere."

The thing, though, is that Fouaad will have to dedicate some time for this and that could mean endangering his whole preparation for the year's biggest equestrian meet: the World Equestrian Games. To be held in Herning, Denmark, the WEG is even bigger than the Olympics as far as the sport is concerned because 'it's a CCI 5* and the Olympics itself is only 4*," Fouaad says. What's more, the WEG doubles up as an Olympic qualifier for the 2024 Games. It's so challenging that Fouaad has already mapped out his year already.

Sahal helps Blasters beat Jamshedpur in first leg

FATORDA: Few teams this season have managed to make Jamshedpur FC look second-best and that is what Kerala Blasters did with a 1-0 win in their Indian Super League semifinal first leg clash. While Sahal Abdul Samad scored the decisive goal, it was a defensive masterclass by Ivan Vukomanovic that helped them take a crucial advantage. Coyle threw everything at Blasters by bringing on super subs Jordan Murray and Ishan Pandita but the Blasters defence was equal to the task as they secured one of their most memorable wins.

FIH Pro League: Indian women take on Germany

BHUBANESWAR: The Indian women's hockey team would look to return to winning ways against a higher-ranked Germany in the two-legged tie of the FIH Pro League, starting with the first match here on Saturday. The Indian women are well placed in the standings as they are currently at the third position with nine points from four games.

Sen enters semifinals, Srikanth bows out

RUHR: Lakshya Sen progressed to the semifinals but Kidambi Srikanth suffered a 10-21, 21-23 loss to Viktor Axelsen to bow out of the German Open Super 300 tournament on Friday. Sen saw off former top 10 player HS Prannoy 21-15, 21-16 in an all-Indian quarterfinals.

India looking for quick turnaround

GOMESH S @Chennai

WHEN asked whether India missed a trick by stacking three left-handers at the top against New Zealand and whether they will stick with it versus West Indies, head coach Ramesh Powar said he trusts the batting unit, before adding, "we'll look at this. Maybe we have taken the wrong call. We accept that. I think, moving forward… we need to address that."

While there were very little takeaways otherwise from the presser, the admission from Powar at the pre-match press conference that they got it wrong could augur well for India. That they will be back on the field on Saturday could be a blessing in disguise as India would want a quick turnaround.

But, the Stafanie Tayor-led West Indies is not to be taken lightly. They have beaten hosts New Zealand and defending champions England in the first two games. Taylor and vice-captain Anisa Mohammad have reiterated the welcoming change in approach since Courtney Walsh took over as head coach. West Indies as they have shown in the past and in the ongoing World Cup can take on any team on the given day.

Which is why it would be even more important for the team management to take a hard look in the mirror and come up with a different team combination and better on-field tactics. They are fifth in the table and still have five games to go. A win on Saturday is essential as tougher contests lie ahead. LIVE ON STAR SPORTS NETWORK @ 6.30 AM

DAY'S DIARY

Dandi march begins

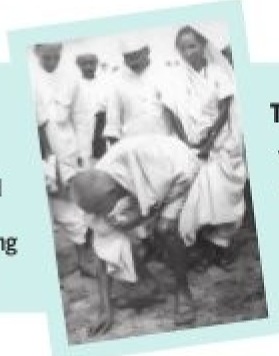
On this day in 1930, Mahatma Gandhi accompanied by Prabhashankar Patani, Mahadev Desai, Pyarelal (his secretary), and 78 others began his march to Dandi

DEFYING POLICY

There, they were to defy British policy by making salt from seawater. By the time they reached Dandi on April 5, Gandhi was at the head of a crowd of tens of thousands

THE INITIAL PLAN

The plan was to work the salt flats encrusted with crystallised sea salt at high tide, but the police forestalled him by crushing the salt deposits into the mud



THE IMPACT

This march led to several civil disobedience movements in the country and also left its impact on leaders, like American civil rights activist Martin Luther King Jr

Dinakar Thoogudeepa to direct Viraat

STAR-STUDDED

It was houseful at Chowdiah Memorial Hall recently at the performance of Lillete Dubey's play, Lockdown Liaisons, brought to the city by FICCI FLO, Bengaluru chapter. The collection of five stories, written by Shobhaa De, were enacted by Ira Dubey and Joy Sengupta | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON

Ace cricketer Anil Kumble's son Mayas Kumble on his new book, his relationship with his dad and encounters with the wild...

SANATH PRASAD

IT all started five years ago when ex-cricketer and wildlife photographer Anil Kumble handed over a Leica Bridge camera to his son Mayas Kumble to use it during wildlife safaris.

Since then, from Ranthambore to Kabini and Tadoba, Kumble Jr has travelled a long way into the wilderness with his camera. All of his photographic encounters are now documented in a coffee table book, Safari Saga Wild Encounters of a Young Photographer. The book was launched recently in the presence of former cricketer VVS Laxman.

The 17-year-old believes wildlife safaris and travelling are part of his family's tradition. In fact, he is also the co-founder of the school photography club at The International School Bangalore. He was bitten by the wildlife bug in 2017 during a family trip to Ranthambore, which marked the beginning of a new phase for him. It's no surprise because his dad is an avid wildlife photographer who has captured some historic cricketing moments on his lens.

"I started learning photography from Appa during safaris, and at home I would watch YouTube tutorials and work on the images. Dad and I bond like friends during photo tours. Photography also gives me a break from academics," says Mayas.

The book documents Mayas' encounters with the big cats, raptors, birds and mammals over the last five years. For Mayas, his 'prize catch' always remains Kabini's sought after animal – the black panther – which he was not able to capture properly for the first time in 2017, but managed to in 2021. "I was disheartened when I didn't get a proper shot of the black panther during my first attempt. But the best lesson nature has taught me is patience. Before I got into photography, I was relatively impatient during family trips and safaris. The wildlife trips helped me resolve this," says Mayas, who waited for two-and-a-half hours to capture four tigers drinking water from a waterbody in Tadoba-Andhari National Park. This picture is also the cover page of his coffee table book.

Thanks to the lockdown, Mayas fine-tuned his photography skills with his mentor and wildlife photographer Jayanth Sharma. "I just hope I get to spend more time amidst nature this year," says Mayas, who will commercialise the book after his academic commitments.

FIELD DAY

I have been a culprit of batters getting out in their 90s. I had this superstition... if I picked up the camera in anticipation of the batsman getting the 100th run, he would instead get out.

One of my favourite photographs on field is of Sachin's [Tendulkar] century in Delhi, where I got a shot of his celebration with the manual scoreboard reading 100 in the background
– Anil Kumble, former Indian cricket team captain

Hearing Mayas speak about 'determination', 'out of the comfort zone', and 'learning', felt like Anil's traits. In fact, some of my memorable photographs on the field have been taken by Anil. On every cricket tour, he would bring a better camera, while we got a better bat

VVS Laxman, head, National Cricket Academy

① Holi is near and that's another reason to try all the festive dishes. This special traditional beverage, flavoured with saffron, pepper, milk, and sometimes dry fruits is a staple during Holi. Guess?

② These fried crusted pastry pockets are sometimes referred to as the Indian version of empanada, but with sweet fillings usually of mewa, khoya, or dry fruits and coconuts, and delicious when hot! What is it popularly known as and what's the local name?

③ Another dessert that's luscious and creamy, frozen so it's closest to an ice cream but so much more. It's traditionally flavoured with saffron, pistachio, rose, and cardamom. Can you guess what we are talking about?

Trauma & turmoil

EXPRESS FEATURES

SOME scars don't fade and some decisions are hard to take. Trauma changes the way we conduct ourselves and respond to the world. These are subjects that will be explored in playwright Javed Siddiquie's Raat which sheds light on the lasting trauma of sexual assault.

The story revolves around Aashi, a social worker who lived with her husband Kabir, until she meets Kavi, who rapes her. Aashi is left in a dilemma if she should take revenge or let law take its course. Produced by theatre artiste and actor Lubna Salim, the one-hour-15-minute play features Ankita Jain, Avantika Gautam, Ankit Tripathi and Ankit Pranav.

"Understanding the triggers, confidence level and social anxiety of a rape victim was important before we jumped into depicting a character like this on stage," explains Jain, who portrays the lead character. Delhi-based clinical psychologist Aanchal Chatrath helped him get sensitive details right. "It was a difficult experience or more like traumatising. The psychologist helped us get those details right," says Jain.

Even if it is a sensitive topic, the story is a huge thriller. "There was a lot of homework that went into playing the character. While writing the play, we ensured that the story was at the heart of it. We paid a lot of attention to the narration," says Jain, adding that till the end, the audience is kept guessing about certain aspects.

(Raat is scheduled to be performed on March 12 at Alliance Francaise, at 4 pm and 7 pm)

XPRESS FOCUS

'Values depicted in South Indian Films are my guiding principles'

For young and aspiring actor, Anoop Surya, presently based in the United States, the feelings of wonder and insight has led to him being creatively bent upon making his name on the big scree. With a few promising assignments, the graduate in Theatre from the University of Alabama in Huntsville and a SAG-Eligible actor professionally working in Atlanta, he states that his growing up years in Bengaluru had a huge impact on his decision to take up acting as a profession.

You were pursuing Mechanical Engineering in the US. Why did you change the stream?

When I started college in the US, I finally got the opportunity to pursue a performance related major, Theatre, and I leapt at it. I weighed where a mechanical engineering career or an acting career would take me 10 years from then, and acting came out on top. This was a result of my burning passion for performing and story-telling and I just didn't see myself being an engineer for the rest of my life.

Although I could have made a profitable career out of it, my passion and happiness were in acting and becoming a film or TV actor.

I had to trust myself to be successful in acting despite the setbacks, the low pay at times, the rejections, and the competition. So, at 19 years old, I changed my major to theatre and started training to be a working actor. And I have never looked back since.

The hardship involved in my industry was rather a challenge than an issue for me and the more I have involved myself in acting, the more I have realised that this will be a fruitful life at the end of it.

While your parents are in Bengaluru, what other connections do you have with the city or state when considering your passion for acting?

I spent about 18 years of my life in southern India and grew up watching the performances of elites like, Dr. Rajkumar, Vishnuvardhan, Shankar Nag, and a long list of other actors in the Kannada film industry. Their true-to-screen performances have been a huge inspiration for my pursuit.

> I have been a huge fan of the works of Upendra, Rakshit Shetty, Rishab Shetty, Anup Bhandari, Sudeep, Ramesh Arvind, SS Rajamouli, and so on. Working with any of them would be a great joy and an unparalleled learning experience.

What kind of inspirations have you gained from the city which shaped your career or your career decisions?

The movie-going culture was very prevalent in my family. The films I saw in most of the Bangalore Talkies have served a huge deal in shaping my craft. I watched a lot of movies in Bangalore and still do when I'm in India. Some days, I would just watch it alone, two to three of them a day. These have helped me shape my own film-making concepts and acting choices when I perform.

What are views on the kind of films that are coming out from South India?

The value systems, namely importance of family and marriage, redemption of the youth, themes of deeper connection to your loved ones, etc. are established in the Kannada film industry, and the South Indian industry at large, and these are something to aspire for.

The kind of film and TV projects I decide to work on here in the US or back home will always have these values as the guiding principles. I feel like the South Indian film industry is going through a revolution with more authentic cinema being released every year.

Are you keen to work on any projects from South India? If so, has anything materialised yet?

I would love to work in Kannada and South Indian films. I recently sent in my audition tape to an open casting call posted by Upendra.

I just hope to hear back with an audition. I am always open to great scripts and it would be an honour to work with some of the Kannada directors.

Any directors or actors from South India with whom you would like to work?

I have been a huge fan of the works of Upendra, Rakshit Shetty, Rishab Shetty, Anup Bhandari, Sudeep, Ramesh Arvind, SS Rajamouli, and so on.

Working with any of them would be a great joy and an unparalleled learning experience.

APANA VAYU MUDRA

(THE MRIT-SANJEEVNI MUDRA)

This asana is also known as Mrit-Sanjeevni Mudra. In ancient India, it was believed to save lives in cases of heart attacks. In the Ramayana, Sanjeevni was the herb that revived Lord Laxmana from the unconscious. Similarly, this Mudra also snatches us from the hold of death caused by heart-related problems. It should be practised daily for 30 to 45 minutes, either all at once or three times per day for 10 to 15 minutes. Apana is the downward moving energy current of the breath or life-energy. It balances the downward flow and aids the elimination of aspects of biology.

STEPS

- Sit in any asana such as Padmasana, Sukhasana, or Vajrasana. Be comfortable.
- After that, close your eyes, take a couple of deep breaths.
- Now, join the tip of the middle finger and ring finger, with the tip of the thumb.
- Bend the index finger towards the thumb and touch the base with the tip of the index finger.
- Leave the little finger extended as much as possible.
- Do this with both hands simultaneously.
- Without disturbing the finger arrangement, place both hands on your upper thighs.
- Close eyes and chant 'Om' for concentration. You can do this mudra with open eyes as well.
- Now, try to remove all the thoughts from your mind and focus on your breaths.
- The best time to perform all mudras is between 4 am and 6 am. If you are unable to do this in the morning, you can do it in the evening.

LIMITATIONS

- If you pose the Kapha constitution, perform this mudra moderately.
- Remove any watch or bracelet you are wearing.
- Don't wear clothes that are too tight or loose.
- Don't force your fingers into any action.

BENEFITS

RUBINATIONS

Rubi Chakravarti

Writer, actor and funny girl

WHY don't you control her man?' 'How do you 'allow' her to speak so much?' I have lost count on the number of times I have heard these blatantly chauvinistic and sexist remarks directed towards my husband. The 'men' in the group would be more vociferous while the women would look away embarrassed and uncomfortable. Mind you, these were the times when I stepped off stage after a performance. It was like the men banded together to 'wife-shame' Imi, almost as if he wasn't 'man' enough to stop me! The silent women (silence is a screaming acquiescence), would mumble things like; 'poor you Imi. She must be driving you mad at home!' Unsure on how he should respond, my husband would smile enigmatically or mutter something inane…none of which sounded like he disagreed! A reluctant agreement is also an agreement and one is culpable for 'allowing' discrimination against women to continue no matter how many 'Inclusiveness and Diversity' seminars one has attended.

Every time I see my corporate hot-shot daughter juggle her work on the laptop and phone and her equally corporate hot-shot hubby squeeze a fresh orange juice or hurriedly put together a (decent) roast chicken when the cook does not arrive, makes my heart skip a beat. It's in the feeling domain…there is a mutual healthy respect for each other's time and work. I'm not even outlining what my daughter does because it's expected. The myth of multitasking mother goddesses has to be broken. We have no choice in the matter! We have to stretch ourselves thin to cover all the bases.

Smita Agarwal and Bia Taneja

You designate one day for women? Honestly? Even as a mark of token respect all we deserve is a day? I was felicitated by many organisations, given warm handshakes and told to say a few (funny) words. Very sweet and touching, but I wanted to reach out to strike a chord, and be touched in return.

When I think of how many amazing and inspiring women I have met on my journey, it humbles me. I have met women who struggled with male bias, including me, in corporates, arts, theatre, dance…women who were born in bodies that weren't women just struggling to live, to survive, to be respected and treated equally. They make goddesses out of us and compose songs on womanhood and motherhood but it is very difficult to share a piece of sky with us.

I saw Lillete Dubey claim that respect as she performed stories written by Shobhaa De. I saw an organisation of women arrange for the show and facilitate. I saw my friend Usha Subramaniam almost single-handedly pull off this venture. I saw a tribe of women helping women and rising!

Bia Taneja and Akansha Tiwari also rose to the idea of having a ladies lunch at Toscanos. I can't tell you how happy I was to be in the midst of nine inspiring and large-hearted women, another tribe but the same spirit. It was fabulous that we had our lone gent, Jean-Mitchelle Jasserand, also join us.

You may write me down in history, with your bitter, twisted lies. You may trod me in the very dirt…but still, like dust, I'll rise.

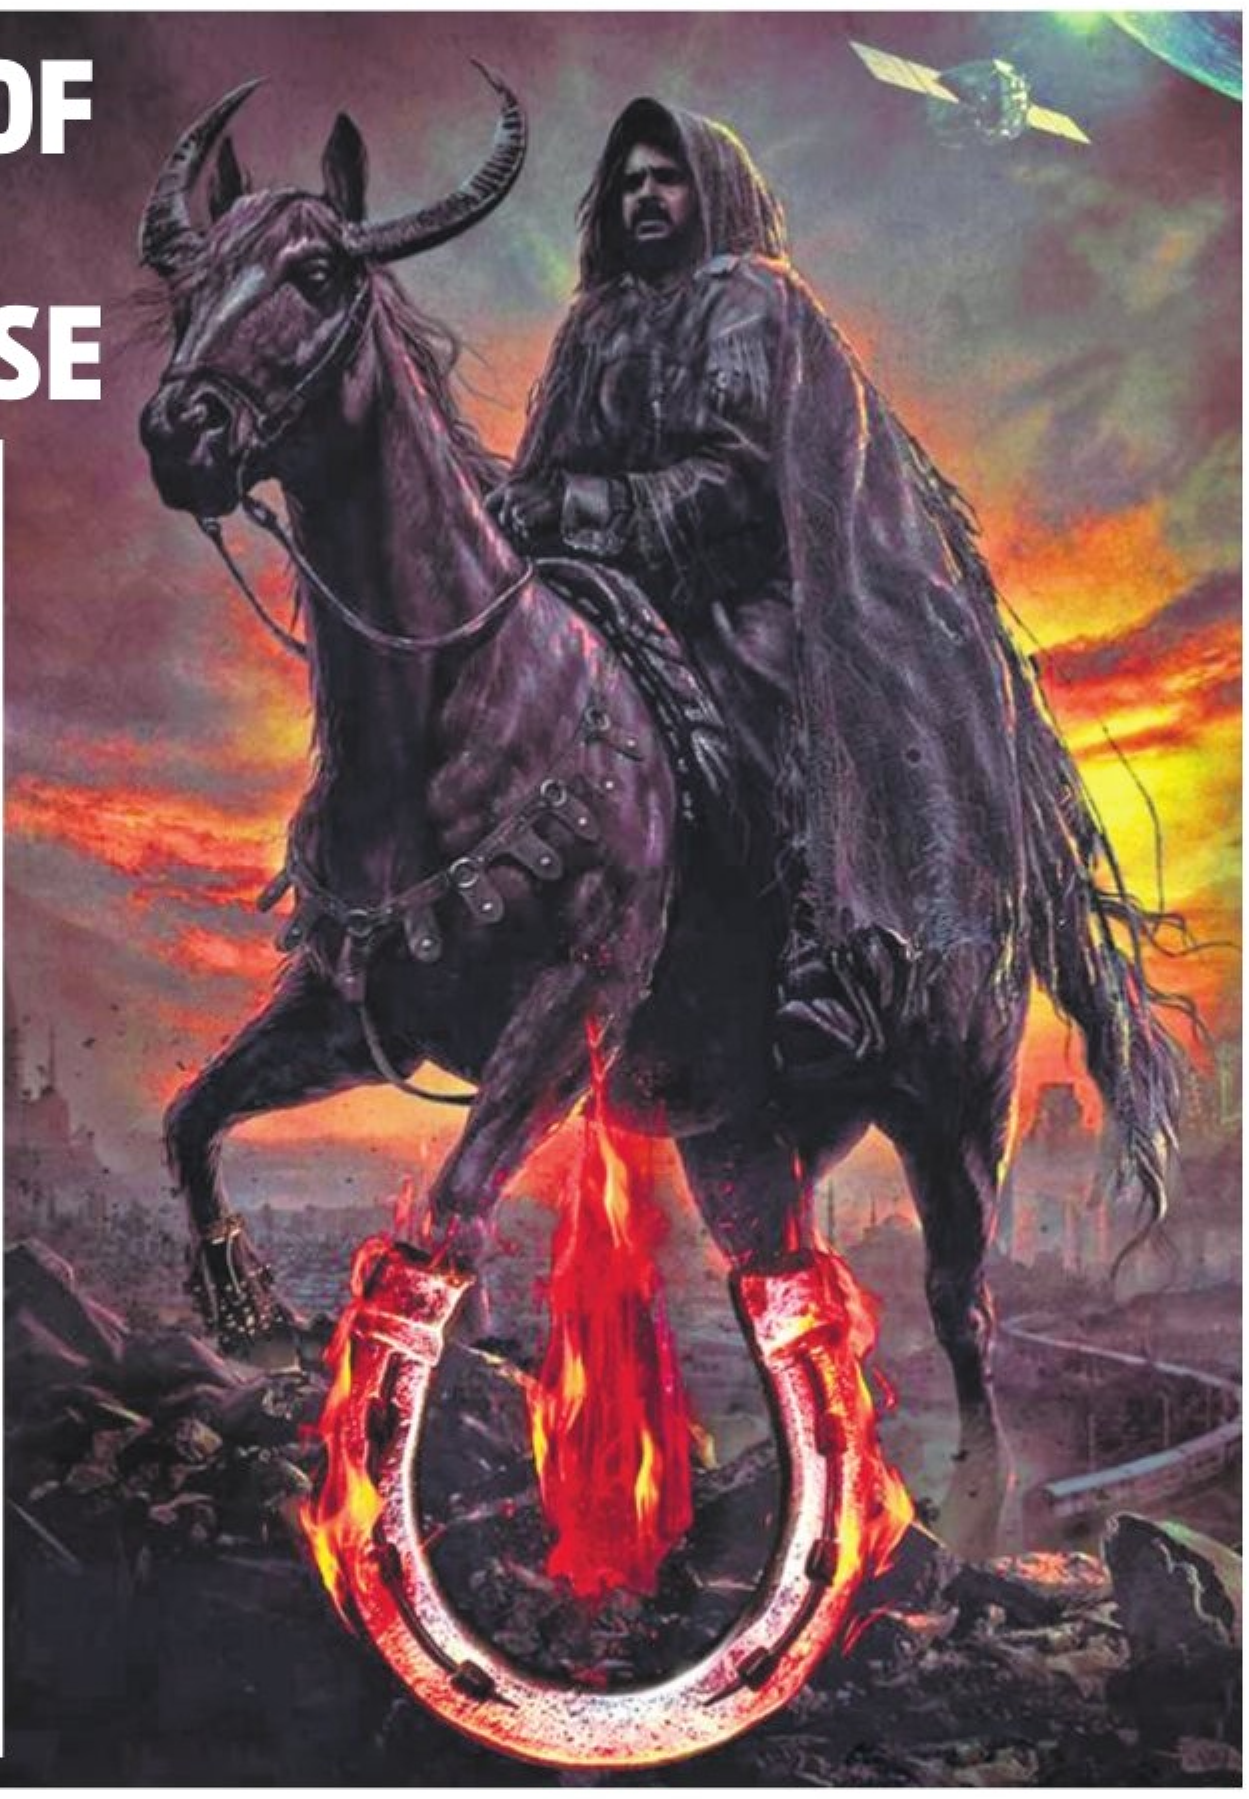
ANNOUNCEMENT OF UPENDRA'S NEXT MAKES RIGHT NOISE



The film, backed by G Manoharan and KP Sreekanth, will be made in all major pan-India languages

A SHARADHAA

UPENDRA has confirmed his return to direction, and his fans are cheered. He made the announcement on Friday through his social media handles. While sharing a new poster of the film, Upendra wrote, "In the film Industry, it is you who created the story Upendra, it is you who wrote the screenplay and dialogues for 33 years, it is you who directed through your whistles and claps. I dedicate this film to you, the Praja Prabhu fans."

The poster and Upendra's words have created buzz among the fans. The poster features the actor in a bruised look sitting on the back of a horse. The background of the poster indicates a period setting with the logo using elements like horseshoe and fire to represent the shape of a trident. The title of the film continues Upendra's streak of unique titles after Tharle Nan Maga, Shhh, Om, Operation Antha, Swastik, A, Upendra, Super and Uppi 2.

G Manoharan, Upendra & KP Sreekanth

Popular musical label Lahari Music will be bankrolling the project through Lahari Films in association with Venus Entertainers. The film, backed by G Manoharan and K P Sreekanth, will be made in all major pan-Indian languages including Kannada, Tamil, Telugu and Hindi. It is also expected to be dubbed and released in other languages. The team has planned the muhurath in April, and further details are expected to be revealed then. The makers have recently begun auditions for the project and the film is expected to enter production in the first week of May.

Upendra is currently shooting for R Chandru's Kabzaa, as he look forward to the release of Home Minister on April 1.

Hemanth M Rao

Gultoo director Janardhan Chikkanna's next to be produced by Hemanth M Rao

The duo is collaborating for a murder mystery set in the 1990s

CE FEATURES

DIRECTOR and producer Hemanth M Rao is set to bankroll Gultoo filmmaker, Janardhan Chikkanna's next project. It will be made under Hemanth's Lost and Found Films Production House banner. Talking about this new venture, Hemanth shares that he has known Janardhan Chikkanna since the latter made his debut, and the two were planning to collaborate on a project for a long time, and it has finally come through. "Janardhan Chikkanna is one of the fantastic directors I have come across, and he proved it with his very first film, Gultoo. It was a brilliant contribution to Kannada cinema, and I felt it to be an achievement. Although, I did not get to see any of his work after his first film, I was in touch with him, and when he shared details about this script, I decided to back it up," says Hemanth.

The yet-to-be-titled film will be a murder mystery set in the 1990s. "I categorise Janardhan's film as a moody thriller, and most of the shooting will take place in Chikmagalur, and the Madikeri belt," says Hemanth. The makers, who are yet to zero in on the starcast, have finalised the technical team. "Music director Charan Raj and cameraman Advaitha Gurumurthy will be working on this project. An announcement about the rest of the cast and crew is expected to be made soon," says Hemanth.

Janardhan Chikkanna

Hemanth, who has co-produced projects like Godhi Banna Sadharna Mykattu, Humble Politician Nograj, and Bheema Sena Nalamaharaja, is bankrolling the project with Janardhan Chikkanna in association with Prachura PP and Janaaa Pictures. "I, with my other investors, are planning to bankroll a couple more projects this year, and we are in the process of identifying some good scripts," he says.

Meanwhile, Hemanth is waiting to resume shooting the second half of his upcoming directorial, Sapta Sagadaache Yello, and will begin shooting it once Rakshit Shetty is done with his physical transformation for the role.

A LIMP ATTEMPT AT PROVOCATION

THE KASHMIR FILES

Cast: Darshan Kumaar, Anupam Kher, Mithun Chakraborty, Pallavi Joshi, Puneet Issar

Director: Vivek Agnihotri

SHILAJIT MITRA

IN 1989-1990, amid a rising insurgency, the demographically-disadvantaged Kashmiri Pandit community in the Valley came under threat. As violence and persecution rose, lakhs of them fled their homes to settle in refugee camps. For over 30 years, they lived in exile, with successive governments doing little for their resettlement. Their cause is raised in political debates, and is often left at that. And now another atrocity is visited upon them: in the form of a Vivek Agnihotri film about the exodus.

Vivek's last film, The Tashkent Files, was a conspiracy thriller, culled from vague literature paraded as groundbreaking truths. His latest, The Kashmir Files, opens with an acknowledgment: the film, we're told, is based on video testimonies of actual Kashmiri Pandit victims. Attached to this is the disclaimer that the film, set between 1980s and present times, intends no disrespect to any community or faith. Both statements are woefully compromised. The Kashmir Files hasn't the slightest concern for its subject people, gleefully exploiting their trauma and tragedy for cheap rhetoric. And its communal agenda is so brazen it beats most mainline propaganda.

Krishna (Darshan Kumaar) is a college student in Delhi. Persuaded—'brainwashed' is the implicit term—by a professor (Pallavi Joshi), Krishna is contesting elections on the 'Kashmir cause', unaware of his own family's past. His parents and elder brother were murdered at the time of the exodus—"genocide," the film corrects us repeatedly. When Krishna visits his ancestral home, ostensibly to bury his grandfather's ashes but also to document the region's current state, he is faced with inconvenient truths—all packaged in flashbacks and released at a convenient time.

RATING 1/5

From the start, Vivek paints Kashmiri Hindus and Muslims in violent opposition. We are shown killings, desecrations and senseless acts of pillage and abuse. In evoking this bloodlust, the film gives away its own. The violence isn't contextualized—graphic provocation is all it's meant to achieve. It's true that Kashmiri minorities were historically persecuted, perhaps in more horrid ways than we see onscreen. But the film doesn't stop at identifying radical insurgents and fundamentalists as the perpetrators. Every Muslim—from a maulvi at a refugee school to the Pandits' neighbours—is a villain or enabler. When Steven Spielberg made Schindler's List (1992), he also picked as his protagonist a conscientious German man, whereas there is not a single moderate in The Kashmir Files.

The film operates by a twisted logic. Here's a typical exchange. Character A: Kashmiri Muslims are persecuted. Character B: But they also killed Pandits. A: That's not true. B: It's true. Remove Article 370. The fact that no conflict is unidimensional, that there can be multiple oppressed groups in a region, simply doesn't dawn on this film. Rather, it conflates everything: sloganeering and activism with terrorism, student politics with national politics, 20th and 21st century Kashmir with ancient Kashmir.

At least The Tashkent Files had a fun mix of characters. Here, Anupam Kher and Mithun Chakraborty lead the old guard (their angry outbursts made me worry if a cardiologist was on call). Darshan Kumaar looks like any Indian boy who's stuck in a family WhatsApp group, and can't leave. Pallavi Joshi is least credible as a shifty prof, saying even the simplest of things with a conspiratorial air. The film is most excited when training its gun on intellectuals and journalists—not so when offering actual solutions to the Kashmiri Pandit cause. "The foreign press exploits images of women and children," we're told, in a film full of images of women and children.

The Kashmir Files flips the old commandment: it demands two eyes for one.

OF WOMEN'S SAFETY AND MULTITUDE OF EMOTIONS

DEAR SATHYA

Cast: Aryan Santhosh, Archana Kottige, Ashwin Rao Pallaki, and Aruna Balraj

Director: Shiva Ganesh

A SHARADHAA

IN recent times, we have seen many films tackling themes revolving around middle-class values, family sentiments, mother-son relationships, revenge etc... What makes Dear Sathya stand out from the crowd is director Shiva Ganesh's narrative style, which employs the reverse screenplay method. Apart from the balanced direction, the strength of Dear Sathya is the script, written by Aryan Santhosh, who is also the protagonist of the film.

Being a film that is based on a true incident, Aryan manages to get close enough to reality and brings out the experiences of people around whom the story revolves.

The film begins with Sathya (Aryan Santhosh) coming out of the prison with a revenge-fuelled heart. Thus begins the flashback, and we see Sathya as a friendly food delivery boy and a doting son. His other weakness is the love of his life, Anjali, (Archana Kottige). A man full of dreams, Sathya is inspired by the Japanese lifestyle and their hard work, and wants to set up a Karnataka-style food restaurant in that country. On the other hand, Anjali aims to become an air hostess. Even as both are working towards their goals, Sathya receives a double blow as Anjali is murdered and he is arrested for the same.

RATING 3/5

How Sathya goes about proving his innocence is one part of the story, and the other part delves into how he takes the law into his hands while also helping police to destroy a notorious gang. This journey leads to not one but two climaxes giving a justifiable but abrupt end.

Director Shiva Ganesh, who proved his directorial capabilities with the remake of Jigarthanda in Kannada, has done a good job with Dear Sathya. However, the director, who has tackled a realistic subject, does get carried away with the commercial elements. With neat performances, the film could have made for a crisp thriller if the repetitive scenes were cut short.

Aryan Santhosh makes all the right moves with his acting, and Archana Kottige too puts in an earnest effort. Aruna Balaraj, Ashwin Pallaki, and Aravind Rau make their importance felt in the film. Another highlight of Dear Sathya is the music by Sridhar Sambhram, and DoP Vinod Bharathi has wonderfully captured some stunning locales.

There are a lot of films, which highlight women's safety issues, however, Dear Sathya takes it a notch higher with a blend of varied emotions.
